FIND RELICS OVER 4500 YEARS OLD

Sarcophagus Discovered In Ancient Tomb Outranks King Tut-Ankh-Amen

BULLETIN
BOSTON, March 10.—The tomb discovered in Egypt by the Harvard expedition is some 100 years older than the tomb of Tut-Ankh-Amen and is that of a princess, not of Cheops or Seneferu.

This definite information was contained in a cablegram received this afternoon by Dr. George A. Reisner, professor of Egyptology at Harvard and director of the expedition from his chief assistant, Allan Rowe.

CAIRO, March 10.—The curtain of time has lifted again and revealed the splendor of a purple day in the world's history.

A large marble sarcophagus decorated with columns of gold was found in the tomb discovered by the Boston Museum-Harvard expedition, it was announced today.

Near the sarcophagus was found a seal of King Seneferu, who ruled in Egypt 1500 years before King Tut-Ankh-Amen.

King "Tut" was dominant in Egypt 3,000 years ago.

Find Many Relics
The tomb contained numerous relics, the excavators said, many of them being of marble and copper.

What appeared to be a basin was made of copper. The art of hardening copper was lost centuries ago, members of the party pointed out.

Forty feet of masonry was cut through before the tomb itself was reached.

Excavating work has been going on in the pyramids, believed to have been built by a Cheops some 3,700 years ago.

"I lost Lady Carnarvon's friendship when you became her lover," the letter read.

Dowager Countess Carnarvon, a late arrival when the case was resumed today, bowed trembling shoulders and covered her face as the letter was read.

California Lawmakers Must Work 'Under Wraps' To End, Warning

SACRAMENTO, March 10.—Warning California's lawmakers that they must work "under wraps" for the remainder of the present session, Thomas Gannon, legal coach of the two legislative teams, declared in a statement today that only 196 new bills may be introduced between now and the date of adjournment, which has been tentatively fixed as April 15.

The maximum capacity of the bill hopper is 2,135 measures, Gannon said, and a check by the legislative counsel bureau, of which he is chairman, indicates that 1,989 bills have already been submitted.

Legislative Damper
In putting on the legislative damper, the state attorney cited a constitutional provision limiting each legislator to two new bills during the final half of the session making a total of 240 measures that may originate during the last round of lawmaking.

Forty-four of these bills are now before the two houses, the statement continued, and the maximum allowance for the final five weeks is approximately thirty-nine per week.

WASHINGTON, March 10.—The United States Senate this afternoon took the unprecedented action of rejecting a president's cabinet selection, when it voted against the confirmation of Charles B. Warren of Detroit to be attorney-general.

WASHINGTON, March 10.—Flushed by a victory in expelling the La Follette insurgent bloc from the Republican ranks of the Senate, administration leaders led their loyal followers today in a drive to confirm Charles B. Warren of Detroit as attorney-general.

A vigorous defense of Warren was made by Senator Cummins, Republican of Iowa.

Assailing Democratic and Progressive critics of Warren, Cummins started the administration's final drive to secure early confirmation of the appointment, which has been hanging fire in the Senate for weeks.

Will Complete Cabinet
Ratification of Warren's appointment will complete the new cabinet of President Coolidge and eliminate all cause for a prolonged session of the Senate. Consideration of the Isle of Pines and Lausanne treaties remain on the administration program, but both subjects will be postponed until next December if protected opposition develops.

The Democrats maintained an attitude of strict neutrality throughout the insurgent quarrel. This neutrality enabled the administration forces to win.

Senators Walsh, Democrat of Montana, and Reed, Democrat of Missouri, were leaders in the contest against Warren.

FRANCE REPLIES ON BRITISH DEBT

Debtor Country Asks Action Be Made Dependent On Dawes Plan Share

LONDON, March 10.—France has replied to the British note asking payment of the French debt, it was learned today. The foreign office refused to discuss the reply, but it was learned that France wants a debt moratorium and wants later debt payments dependent upon the amount received from Germany under the Dawes plan.

The French view is contrary to the British stand expressed in the original note, which suggested that France levy on its revenues independent of Dawes plan receipts in order to discharge its obligations.

Unstable Finances
It is expected Premier Herriot has convinced Austen Chamberlain, that the French finances are in an unstable condition now and unless the proposed French loan is floated in New York, French finance will take a still more unfavorable turn.

'MUZZLED' TAX ANTICS ARE CHARGED

Income Adjustment Scandal As Couzens Threatens To 'Dig Deeper'

WASHINGTON, March 10.—Documents purporting to show that subordinate officers in the Bureau of Internal Revenue were "muzzled" and threatened with dismissal for differing with their superiors in big tax adjustments have been laid before the Senate investigating committee, it was disclosed today.

This revelation, coupled with charges by Senator Couzens, Republican of Michigan, chairman of the investigating committee, that he is being "persecuted" by the treasury for his activities in digging into tax secrets, gave an entirely new twist to the probe today and Couzens declared that the treasury's attitude would only serve to make him dig deeper into the records.

Muzzling Aspect
The "muzzling" aspect of the probe came to light in the committee's investigation of the case of the Penn Sand & Gravel Co. According to counsel for the committee, the Penn Co. was allowed a depletion claim of $150,297 by the bureau's committee on review and appeal after engineers had set the figure at $54,954. The higher allowance resulted in a loss of taxes to the government.

At a brief executive session today the committee decided that hearings opening again Monday would continue without interruption until April. During the next month, the committee will investigate both tax and prohibition cases in the bureau, Couzens declared.

"We are going to hit this thing hard," said Couzens. "We are going to work early and stay late."

PLAN CONTROL FOR FLOOD WATERS

Proposed Structure In Big Tujunga Canyon Would Serve Glendale

P. J. Hayselden, secretary of the City Planning commission, and M. Walters of the Barnum-Walters Co., developers of Sparr Heights, represented Glendale yesterday afternoon at a meeting held at the site in the Big Tujunga canyon, where it is proposed to spend $2,000,000 in erecting a great flood control dam. There were present at this gathering representatives from all portions of the San Fernando valley. The tour of inspection was preceded by a luncheon and speaking program.

It was decided to hold a general meeting within the next two weeks, probably in Glendale, to discuss ways and means of financing the project.

A portion of the $35,000,000 recently voted for flood control purposes in Los Angeles county is available, it was brought out, but the dam will cost more than the sum that can be delegated to this use and existing legislation precludes the possibility of floating another bond issue for flood control until all of the $35,000,000 that has been made available is spent. This will take several years.

Seek Legal Aid
It has therefore been decided to seek new legislation that will make possible another issue before the present one is spent. Steps in this direction are already under way and bills now before the Legislature, carrying such provisions, may go through.

"The Big Tujunga dam project is of vital interest to Glendale and to every city in the San Fernando valley," said Mr. Hayselden. "It seems not only that disastrous flood waters will be controlled and allowed to reach the Los Angeles river without damage, but that vast quantities of water will be made available for irrigation purposes. The proposed dam will impound 60,000 acre feet of water which now goes to waste each year."

Among those present at the dam site yesterday afternoon were: J. W. Reagan, chief engineer of the Los Angeles county flood control district; H. A. Van Norman, Los Angeles city engineer; J. C. Reardon, president of the Associated Members of Commerce of the San Fernando valley; A. D. Kirschman, president of the Central Valley league of Tujunga; R. O. Church and W. J. Riley of Burbank; A. J. Barnes and Cecil Wilcox.

$236,250 PAID FOR PHONES IN YEAR

People of Glendale paid, $236,250 for telephone service during the year of 1924, according to figures of the Pacific Telephone & Telegraph Co., just filed with City Clerk A. J. Van Wie. This is $40,200 more than was paid to the telephone company for service in this city during 1923, the gross receipts of that period amounting to $196,050.

The figures represent the amount expended for telephone service within the city of Glendale only and not over the whole district served from the Glendale office.

CAPITOL SHAKEN BY 'WET' CHARGES

Witness Against Ousted Dry Officer Says He Got 'Jackass' Brandy

SACRAMENTO, March 10.—Charging that the traffic in bootleg liquor during the administration of Walter Greer as federal prohibition agent here extended into the state capitol, George Larose of Orland, a prosecution witness, sprang a sensation at the opening of the trial of the ousted prohibition officer and his constable Bartie Greer, in federal court here today by declaring that he bought "jackass" brandy from the latter in his office in the state house.

Larose said that he visited Greer in the capitol, where he was employed as a clerk in the secretary of state's office and paid him $150 for a consignment of liquor which he believed had been confiscated during raids. While he gave direct testimony that the liquor was paid for in the capitol, the witness failed to state whether it was delivered to him in the state building or at a later date.

'Protection Graft'
On numerous other occasions, said the witness, he paid Greer sums ranging from $10 to $550 for protection.

Larose is at present awaiting trial on liquor charges. The two Greers are on trial for alleged attempt to extort money from bootleggers during Walter Greer's term of office as chief of the Sacramento prohibition enforcement office.

CRUISERS ON SEARCH FOR 'ENEMY'

Great Naval Maneuver Off California Coast Is In Full Swing Today

tinued scouting today in search for the "enemy," advancing toward the coast from Christmas Island.

The "black fleet" carries a total of twenty-four 16-inch guns and sixty-eight 14-inch guns, capable of firing a broadside totaling in weight more than 140,000 pounds. The enemy force has thus far been undetected by the "blues," seriously handicapped by lack of sufficient cruisers.

Airplanes Ready
Each cruiser carries two airplanes which may be launched at sea from a catapult apparatus and these were expected to prove especially effective in scouting work. The "blue fleet" was reported as daily tirelessly sweeping an area of more than 60,000 square miles in search for the "black fleet."

Contact between the two forces was expected hourly today. Lookouts in the "blue fleet," scanned the skies for hours in search for a trace of smoke which would betray the "enemy" ships.

The proposed constitution and by-laws were read by John S. Knox, chairman of the committee and adopted. ## AUTO SHOW CONTINUES TO DRAW IMMENSE CROWDS

EXTENSION OF DRIVE IS SOUGHT

City Planners Recommend Chevy Chase Join With Adams, Park Avenue

The recommendation that Chevy Chase drive be extended in a southwesterly direction along the Sycamore canyon wash to a junction with Adams street and the proposed easterly extension of Park avenue, was made last night to the City Council by the City Planning commission. The meeting was held at the City Hall, Chairman T. W. Watson presiding. Chevy Chase drive is the new name for Sycamore Canyon road, which was recently opened, widened and paved its entire length from Sycamore canyon on the north to Acacia avenue on the south.

The recommendation made last night by the city planners, it is felt, will provide a more direct connection between Los Angeles and Flintridge, via Chevy Chase drive, when the road construction project now under way through the property of the Chevy Chase estates in Sycamore canyon is completed.

ROTARY SPONSORS HEALTH LECTURES

Prospectors Discover 'Klondike' in Siberia

TOKIO, March 10.—Reports have reached here of the discovery of a "new Klondike" on the Aldana river in eastern Siberia. The new gold field is reported to be very rich, Russians, according to the reports, are flocking into the district and, with true communistic instinct, have put into effect a novel "gentleman's agreement" under which anyone who succeeds in obtaining twenty pounds of gold is not expected to prospect for any more, in order to give the other fellows a chance. The field is located in an almost inaccessible and inhospitable region and there is no means of transportation other than sledges. Experts here believe that the value of the find has been greatly exaggerated, although not doubting that gold is to be found in the district.

CHIEF FRASER LAUDED FOR VIGILANCE

Glendale Police Force Gets Credit for Being One of Country's Best

Glendale has earned the reputation among crooks as a good place to stay away from, according to information reaching Chief John D. Fraser of the Glendale police department, through his detective squad. This has been reflected in a notable decrease in local crime. "Lay off Glendale!" is the tip crooks pass to one another. "If you get caught in Glendale, goodbye liberty!" is the slogan popular in the Los Angeles underworld.

From the Mexican gambling dens of Tijuana to the rum ports of British Columbia, the warning is, "The Glendale police department is on the job!"

Weekly Training
"As to the personnel of your department, it is a well-known fact that the city of Glendale has a wonderful police force and one of which the citizens can well be proud," said C. E. Webb of the Santa Monica police department, in a letter addressed to Chief Fraser.

In his files Chief Fraser has scores of such letters, including a recent communication from the revenue department, Washington, D. C., commending his department.

"I am training my men in weekly schools," says Chief Fraser, "in the very latest science of police work. My men are put on their honor to do their best work at all times of the day and night, wherever duty calls. No man can last with me who fails in this particular."

"Our records show that, in comparison with other cities of similar size, we have 20 per cent less crime. From July 1 to the end of 1924 we made seventy-five arrests for driving while intoxicated and transporting liquor. In the same period we picked up forty grand and petty larceny cases."

"I am running this department just as I would run a business of my own, from the standpoint of economy and of efficiency. When a man can't work with the rest of the force or fails in the slightest degree to shoot straight, I get rid of him. On the other hand I show my men every courtesy and consideration, and endeavor to make their work as pleasant and congenial as possible. Enforcing the law is stern business and must be regarded as such."

Chief Fraser is an ex-army officer and 86 per cent of his men have seen service with Uncle Sam in the army or navy.

Examination Proposed For Realtor Licensees

Appointment of a committee to examine persons making application for real estate licenses in Glendale will be taken up at the weekly meeting of the Glendale Realty board tomorrow in the Episcopal church basement, corner of Harvard and Louise streets. Auto Demolished When Moose Runs Amuck

AUGUSTA, Me., March 10.—Has a bull moose the right to run into and damage an automobile? Representative Bartlett of Bangor does not think so, for he has introduced a measure in the Maine house of representatives to pay $50.18 to Dr. Edward T. Murray of East Millinocket for damages so caused. Dr. Murray was driving between East Millinocket and Millinocket when, without warning, the moose charged his car and demolished it.

Broadcaster Promised Remedy For Grievance

Auto Dealers Merit Trade

Time and again has The Glendale Evening News called the attention of the people of Glendale to the fact that it is not necessary for them to go out of town to buy anything; that the merchants of Glendale are prepared to serve them in any way they may wish. But this truth has never been proved in so practical a manner as in the automobile show being conducted by the Glendale Automobile Dealers' association. What we see we must believe, and for this reason all the merchants of Glendale are indebted to the motor dealers for showing the people that Glendale business men are alive and alert.

That the dealers of Glendale could, without any help from outside exhibitors, provide such a complete exposition of all that is newest and best in motordom, as they are doing at the big tent at Brand and Magnolia, is a demonstration that is very significant, and we believe will be of immense value to them as well as to all Glendale business men and the citizens as well. This auto show is the most decisive way of saying to the people of Glendale, "It is not necessary for you to go out of Glendale to buy a car or anything connected with a car, no matter what make or what model you may desire."

And as the automobile show progresses and its magnitude and importance become more apparent, The Glendale Evening News believes that the people of Glendale should feel themselves under obligations to patronize Glendale automobile dealers. In a city the size of Glendale many people are buying cars and accessories every day, and we believe that every dollar spent this way should go to home dealers.

Glendale's first automobile show establishes unmistakably the eminence of the auto industry in Glendale and demonstrates conclusively that there is no excuse for going elsewhere to buy. Everything that can be desired is here. And the dealers who have shown such enterprise are unquestionably deserving of encouragement in the way of trade from the home people.

This plan is to arrive at assessed valuations on local property with the aid of members of the committee, all of whom were selected by reason of their knowledge of the subject. The meeting will be held at 7:30 o'clock and will be presided over by Herman Nelson, chairman.

FILM STORIES NOW BEFORE CAMERAS

Louise Dresser and 'Hoot' Gibson, Helen Holmes In Screen Features

By MARIAN MARSHALL
For Southland News Service
HOLLYWOOD, March 10.—Louise Dresser, stage and screen star who resides in Glendale, is achieving a triumph in "make-up" and characterization in "The Goose Woman." William Lyster, director of publicity at Universal City comments.
In the story, which is adapted from Rex Beach's newspaper story of the same name, Miss Dresser (Mrs. Jack Gardner) assumes a dual role. In the one she is a prima donna in the heyday of her success while in the other she portrays "a goose woman," who, after losing her voice at the birth of her son, sinks into the quagmire of despair and exists among the lovely fowl of the earth.
The supporting cast includes Jack Pickford, Constance Bennett, George Cooper and Gustav von Seyffertitz. Scenes from newspaper offices are featured in the film.
Universal's production seems to be running to farmyard fancies. "I, We, He, She, Peacock Feathers," starring Virginia Valli in that category.

Serial Queen Again
"Hoot" Gibson, who had his first film success at the old Kalem studio in Glendale, a part of the San Rafael ranch, is going to portray California history in his next starring vehicle to be directed by Herbert Blache. It is "The Daughter of the Dons," adapted from William MacLeod's magazine story. "Hoot" is resting from his experiences in "Spook Ranch."

And Helen Holmes, serial queen, is again under contract for a new series of adventures under the direction of J. P. McGowan, both of them known to Glendale when "The Hazards of Helen" were in the making. Strange how history repeats itself and just as fate decreed Weber could not be without Fields, or Kolb without Dill, Helen Holmes must have "J. P." at the helm in their latest venture at the California studios here.

Production started recently at the United Studios on "The National Anthem," Corinne Griffith's new vehicle. Kenneth Harlan, Harrison Ford are in support.

Honks Along Gasoline Row

A one-passenger model Chevrolet operated by a motorcycle engine is attracting much attention in the Chevrolet corner of the auto tent. James V. Hough, dealer, recently ran the little machine to Glendale from Oakland.

"The only trouble with it is that it goes too fast," said Hough. It has a speed of seventy miles an hour, and it is hard to regulate below forty miles an hour. The little car was formerly used as a stunt machine in a circus, where it daily looped the loop before watching thousands. "I don't know just what we will do with it after the show," Hough said. "A number of people have tried to buy it, but it isn't for sale. A woman came to the booth last night and declared she 'just had to have it for her little boy.' When I told her she couldn't buy it, she became quite angry."

E. E. Williamson, auto salesman, is one of the busiest men at the auto show. He holds forth also at the Chevrolet corner of the big tent, where a half dozen Chevrolet models are being given the once-over every minute of the afternoon and evening by scores of show visitors.

The first actual sales of the show are credited to Lyman P. Clark, president of the Glendale Motor Car Dealers' association, and also head of the Glendale Motor Car Co., distributors of Maxwell and Chrysler automobiles. Clark sold two machines the first night of the show, he announced yesterday. Last night several other dealers said they have obtained signed contracts for machines, indicating that the show, besides being the success that it is as a show, is also a financial success for the dealers themselves.

The Monarch Auto Supply Co. has an interesting exhibit near the far end of the show tent by the entertainment stage, where a big Tungett distributor with the front removed, is in operation. Spark plugs are arranged so that the visitor can see the spark at fifteen miles an hour, and again at thirty miles an hour, and can watch the generation of sparks in the distributor. The exhibit is attracting much attention.

A big six-cylinder Overland sedan and two four-cylinder cars are being displayed at the show just in front of the entertainment stage by the Murray Motors, Inc. The new machines are attracting much favorable comment.

There has been some confusion about the exact times during which the show is in progress, according to Lyman P. Clark, head of the Glendale Motor Car Dealers' association. It is open every afternoon from 1:30 o'clock to 4:30 o'clock, and every evening from 6 o'clock to 10:30 o'clock. On Sundays the show will be open from 6 p. m. to 10:30 p. m.

John Neushaffer has on display at the show the latest models of Oakland automobiles that have been attracting considerable attention. His booth, nearly half way down the right hand side of the tent, is swarming with visitors all evening long.

Exhibitors at the show today were highly commending the work of the special show committee of the Glendale Motor Car Dealers' association. It is the success of the first annual event of the kind ever held in this city. The committee is composed of P. A. Kelley, chairman; W. A. Tanner and Charles McDaniel.

ENTERTAINMENT AUXILIARY
Mrs. Fred Sheard of 1319 South Adams street, was hostess yesterday to seventeen members of the Mayflower section of the Women's Auxiliary of First Congregational church. Mrs. Louis Sipple is chairman.

THIRD DAY OF EVENT WELL ATTENDED

Dealers To Change Exhibits Daily To Display Full Line of Models

A crowd of approximately 3000 persons visited Glendale's automobile show yesterday afternoon and last night, the third day that the exhibit was open to the public. With no sign of any let-up in the throng that saw the show on the opening night and again on Sunday, the attendance yesterday more than held its own with the other two days, much to the satisfaction of Lyman P. Clark, president of the Motor Car Dealers' association; P. A. Kelley, chairman of the show committee, and other officials.

"We are much pleased with the reception the general public of Glendale has accorded our first automobile show. The attendance and co-operation we have received from a hundred agencies and the public generally demonstrates the interest of this city in the automobile industry and that the people here want their automobile dealers to succeed. We are sincerely grateful for this interest," Mr. Clark said.

Entertainment Given
The several thousands who visited the show last night started arriving early and most of them had completed their tour of inspection of the eighteen different exhibits by the time Show Manager Harry Lebrague stepped to the stage to announce the entertainment program. Because of failure of costumes to arrive in time the scheduled musical skit, "A Breath of Old Spain," was not given, but in its place the entertainers presented their skit, "The Scotch Drill." Following the entertainment, Manager Lebrague distributed a number of valuable prizes free to the lucky ones in the audience. This practice will be continued from night to night, he stated.

Mr. Lebrague also announced that a number of the displays of cars will be changed from day to day, in order to give the dealers opportunity to show all their models. This will add interest to the show and will create a desire on the part of many to spend several nights at the tent, he said.

To come to power without paying the price?

HIT THE SCHOOLS AGAIN

William J. Bogan, assistant superintendent of schools of Chicago, intimates that he believes the school should not be a place to soak up a lot of useless information, but a preparation for taking one's place in the world. He charges that the modern educational diet is a form of poison, and says:

"There is plenty of time to study Cleopatra's amours, but no time for such modern problems as traffic."

"Study of citizenship is being left to dry-as-dust courses in civics, given in the last year in high school."

"There are boys in Chicago schools who daily take the pledge of allegiance to the flag and to the republic for which it stands and at night break the schoolhouse windows."

We do not admit that all he says of Chicago schools is true of those in Southern California, nor do we feel that only the practical should be taught in school. Great advance has been made in late years in the practical application of history, civics and the like in the schools. And the children of Southern California are being drilled so thoroughly in the necessity of both the pedestrian and the driver using care on the streets that this training will have its effect when the next generation is dealing with the traffic problem. In fact, an authority says that traffic is the most serious problem of our big cities and it is a problem that cannot be solved by legislation alone, but only by a combination of laws and education and that "the sensible way is to begin at the root and incorporate safety instruction in all school courses."

We all criticize the schools now and then. Teaching, like publishing a newspaper or writing a book, is so easy to the uninitiated. But the severest criticisms usually come from those who know the least about the subject. The Chicago superintendent is presumably an exception.

FETTERING CUPID

California will very likely join the list of states which compels those who contemplate matrimony to think it over for five days after they apply for a license, as the Senate has passed a measure requiring that length of time to elapse between the application for a license and its issuance, and the House seems to favor the law.

No doubt such a law will prevent some tragedies, as there are too many marriages taking place on the spur of the moment, the kind of romances that lead to the divorce court. A measure requiring a couple to wait and giving them time to consider the matter without haste is a step in the right direction—or it would be if all states had such a law.

But it will be so easy to drive over into Arizona or Nevada or Oregon, whichever is most convenient, while California ministers and justices, deprived of their rightful fees, gnash their teeth. At least that is the way the law works out in other states.

Some years ago the Nebraska Legislature passed a law providing for a lapse of ten days between the application for the marriage license and its issuance. Council Bluffs, Iowa, has ever since been reaping a harvest in license fees from eloping Nebraskans.

This is only one instance of the lack of harmony among the states in the matter of marriage and divorce laws—and one of the least consequence. It is futile for any state to attempt to safeguard posterity by wise marriage laws when refuge may be had from them a few miles away in a neighboring state.

An amendment to the federal constitution is the only solution of this problem—but states' rights must be protected and constitutional amendments are just now taboo.

THREE STATES IN COMPACT

To those who have thought that water shortage problems are peculiar to western states the announcement that "there have been two water famines in New Jersey in the last two years" will come as a surprise. The matter of providing water for the large population centers of New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania has come to be such a pressing problem that these states have entered into a treaty, according to the Literary Digest. This is said to be one of the most important interstate agreements ever drafted in the United States. The compact has to do with the distribution of the waters of the Delaware river, which is a boundary stream and therefore beyond the jurisdiction of any one state. It is noteworthy that these three states, in an issue involving interstate authority, instead of asking Congress for a law, dealt directly with one another through commissioners appointed by each state legislature.

Some see in this incident an argument against the growing centralization of power in Washington and a precedent for other states where questions of water power development and transmission of electric current across state lines arise.

AN ARCTIC EDEN

Southern California may have another rival as a winter resort—in British Columbia. An explorer in the sub-arctic just a little south of the Yukon territory has discovered a spot where the weather is always congenial and where freezing is rare. Verdure is perpetual and the place is a refuge for all sorts of game. The soil is fertile and crops of all kinds grow in profusion. Hot springs on one side of the little valley account for the phenomenon.

It will not be wise for tourists to start for the place in very large numbers, however, as the total area of this Eden is only two or three miles by twenty miles.

GROWTH OF THE CHURCH

While the notion is prevalent in some circles that the people are turning away from the church today, the figures do not show that this is the case. According to census returns, the population of the country has increased 80 per cent since 1890, while in the same period church membership has increased 130 per cent. And it is to be presumed that the changes in church methods making for greater efficiency in the work have increased the influence of the church many times over. And it may be safely stated that 99 per cent of the people recognize in the church the greatest agency for good in the world.

THE YANKS ARE COMING!

The Jewish Press

By DR. FRANK CRANE

Dr. Mordecai Soltes, of Teachers College, Columbia University, New York, has made some interesting investigations in regard to the Jewish press of America.

One thing he finds is that the most diligent reader of Yiddish press editorials is the Jewish laborer.

He outstrips the merchant, the manufacturing and the professional groups, and also the housewives.

The latter group, the housewives, appear to be the least interested in the editorials, although half of them ignoring the editorial comment altogether, while only twenty-six per cent reported that they consult it occasionally.

That the laborer is most interested in the editorials is explained by the fact that among the laborers are many who were students of the Talmud in the countries from which they emigrated. They are frequently far above the average in mental ability and educational attainment.

Analyzing 1543 editorials from Yiddish papers during six months, Dr. Soltes finds that sixty-four per cent of them deal with American issues and twenty-six per cent with problems strictly of Jewish nature. Only about ten per cent deal with world questions.

The papers included are The Daily News, The Forward, The Morning Journal, The Warheit, and The Day.

All the Yiddish newspapers urge their readers to go back to the soil. They deprecate the tendency of the immigrant Jews to concentrate in the cities. They also utilize every possible opportunity to urge Jews to become American citizens. They point out that naturalization is a privilege and a duty and that all who intend to settle permanently in the country should avail themselves of it.

They denounce sabotage, terrorism, direct action and similar methods of solving problems and claim that desirable changes should be made in other ways.

The report goes on to say that there is no future for the Yiddish press as, if the present tendencies are maintained, it will gradually decline and finally eliminate itself.

The most interesting part of the report, however, is that these papers concede their main editorial function to be to interpret American events, ideals and institutions to immigrant Jews.

Dr. Soltes says: "It is evident that the Yiddish press has a decidedly American outlook. The Yiddish newspapers are American newspapers printed in Yiddish and constitute a desirable accession to American journalism."

This report that the Yiddish press is in the front rank of Americanizing agencies and does not tend to provincialism is very gratifying.

The Best of Advice

By CLARK KINNARD

The growth of the mind—what human process is more wonderful?

It should be remembered that the personal tone of each mind, which makes it more alive to certain classes of experience than others, more attentive to certain impressions, is equally the result of that invisible and unimaginable play of the forces of growth within the nervous system which, irresponsibly to the environment, makes the brain peculiarly apt to function in a certain way.

Spencer, in one of the strangest chapters of his Psychology, tries to show the necessary order in which the development of conceptions in the human race occurs.

No abstract development can be developed, he says, until the outward experiences have reached a degree of definiteness and coherence.

"Thus the belief in an UN-CHANGING ORDER, the belief in the LAW, is a belief of which the primitive man is absolutely incapable."

"Experiences such as he receives furnish but few data for the conception of uniformity, whether as displayed in things or in relations."

"The daily impressions which the savage gets yield the notion very imperfectly, and in but few cases. Of all the objects around—trees, stones, hills, pieces of water, clouds and so forth—most differ widely... and few approach complete likeness so nearly as to make discrimination difficult."

Even between animals of the same species it rarely happens that, whether dead or alive, they are presented in just the same attitudes."

"It is only with a gradual development of the arts... that there come frequent experiences of perfectly straight lines admitting of complete apposition, bringing the perceptions of equality and inequality. Still more devoid is savage life of the experiences which generate the conception of the uniformity of succession. The sequences observed from hour to hour and day to day seem anything but uniform; difference is a far more conspicuous trait among them."

"So that if we contemplate primitive human life as a whole we see that multifariousness of sequence, rather than uniformity, is the notion which it tends to generate."

The whole burden of Spencer's book is to show the fatal way in which the mind, supposed passive, is moulded by its experiences of "outer relations."

Who's Who

Numbered among the active philanthropists of 1923 is former United States Senator Simon Guggenheim, who has recently announced a preliminary joint gift by himself and his wife of $3,000,000 to endow the John Simon Guggenheim Memorial Foundation Fellowship. The foundation is intended to provide for advanced study abroad by American students who have shown marked ability in their specialties. It is a memorial to Mr. and Mrs. Guggenheim's son who died in 1922 while a student at Harvard.

Simon Guggenheim was born in Philadelphia in 1867. He was graduated from the public schools of his native city, after which he studied languages in Europe for two years. In 1898 Mr. Guggenheim was married to Olga Hirsch of New York. He went to Pueblo, Colo., in 1888, and was elected United States senator from Colorado to succeed Thomas M. Patterson, taking his seat March 4, 1907. His term expired in 1913.

Prior to his election Mr. Guggenheim was engaged in the mining and smelting business in the United States and Mexico. He is now president of the American Smelting and Refining Co., and Guggenheim & Klein, Inc. He is a director in the Braden Copper Co., and is a member of the firm of Guggenheim Bros., N. Y.

Horoscope

Threatening stars have power today, according to astrology. The Sun and Uranus are in malefic aspect, while Mars is friendly. Under this direction of the stars egotism is likely to be increased in the average man and woman, but especially in those who have cause to be rather self-satisfied.

It is not a good time for seeking employment in any of the artistic or even the clerical vocations.

Uranus is in a place supposed to affect the mental angle, making for severe criticism and an inclination to underrate even one's superiors, and for this reason the mind should protect itself against unkind thoughts.

One of the signs indicates that the public mind will be much disturbed before the end of spring, when the president and governors of states may meet exacting problems.

Engineers come under a remarkably good planetary sway; achievements more marvelous than any in modern times will be accomplished.

There is a specially promising sign for bridge builders and for certain forms of architecture.

As the spring quarter approaches dire omens are discerned for the king of England and the British government.

Educational matters continue subject to the most powerful influences that promise practical advancement and great demand for university advantages and specialized work.

An aggressive, kind, wilful, and confident spirit may be expected as an evidence of kindly rule of the stars, which promise prosperity in many lines of business.

Agitation regarding the rewards of persons in clerical vocations may be expected as industry gains better conditions and larger wages.

Owing to the position of Uranus persons may not apprehend values in modern life wisely, and a continuation of dissipation and

Today's Poem

THE SOLDIER'S TEAR
Upon the hill he turn'd
To take a last fond look
Of the valley and the village church.
And the cottage by the brook.
He listen'd to the sounds
So familiar to his ear,
And the soldier leant up on his sword,
And wip'd away a tear.

Beside the cottage porch
A girl was on her knees.
She held aloft a snowy scarf.
Which fluttered in the breeze.
She breath'd a prayer for him,
A prayer he could not hear.
But he paused to bless her as she knelt,
And wip'd away a tear.

He turn'd and left the spot.
Oh do not deem him weak.
For dauntless was the soldier's heart.
The tears were on his cheek.
Go watch the foremost ranks,
In danger's dark career:
Be sure the hand most daring there,
Has wip'd away a tear.

COFFEE DRINKERS GET RAY OF HOPE

Brazilian Growers' Anxiety
Expected To Lower Cost
Of Popular Drink

By J. C. ROYLE
Special Correspondent to The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1923.
NEW YORK, March 10.—The 60,000,000 cups of coffee which will be consumed in the United States this year probably will not cost as much per cup as was the case in 1921. The reason is that Brazilian coffee men are showing a greater inclination to market their holdings. This is due, according to dispatches from Santos, to anxiety over the curtailment in demand from actual consumers and to the fact that producers now are holding in demand from actual consumers and to the fact that producers now are talking of an 8,000,000 bag crop.

No keener traders exist, according to American business men, than the Brazilian coffee planters and brokers. They took full advantage last year of the political uprising in Sao Paulo whence most of the coffee sent to the United States originates. After the revolt was ended, the federal restrictions on the export of coffee were removed. But they were replaced by state restrictions which regulated the amount shipped and kept the price up. Stocks became short in some sections of the United States and retail prices rose sharply. At the same time stories of crop damage were widely circulated.

Now, however, there apparently will be ample supply for world's needs and the prospect of damage to the next crop is growing less each day as the time draws on toward July 1, the opening of the new crop year. There undoubtedly has been curtailment in consumption as a result of high coffee prices and the Brazilian traders are too shrewd to check sales of their product. These facts incline well-informed experts to predict that prices are not likely to show any great advance. They admit, however, that the statistical position of coffee is very strong, that the carryover will be comparatively light and that world-needs will be large.

In 1924, the per capita consumption, according to the department of commerce, was 12.33 pounds. This would mean that at least 17,508,600 pounds must be added to imports this year to supply the normal expected increase in population. Imports last year totaled 1,419,823,604 pounds. The larger part of this came from Brazil.

HUGHES RETURNS TO PRACTICE LAW

Retires From Office With No Medals For Work
During His Term

By DAVID LAWRENCE
Special Correspondent to The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1923.
WASHINGTON, March 10.—Charles Evans Hughes has left public life almost as inconspicuously as any official of recent years—singled out neither by president Coolidge nor Congress for honors in recognition of service done.

In the hurry and bustle of the inauguration of the departure of one of the most prominent figures in American public life went unsung and, one might say, unrewarded. Many men received the distinguished service cross for work done at their desks in Washington during the war. Charles Evans Hughes has been concentrated for four years on one of the most complicated tasks that ever faced a secretary of state.

Returns to Practice

Mr. Hughes' policies have been at times the subject of severe criticism but there never has been any doubt what they were. He guided two Presidents. He worked day and night at his job. He was to the minds of most people in Washington a great secretary of state.

Yet he goes back to the practice of law without anything being said from the highest places in the government and with no badge of honor except the satisfaction to himself of conscientious service for the public welfare.

Auto Show Continues
To Draw Big Crowds

Entertainment features also change nightly.

A number of sales were reported from the floor of the show last night. President Clark of the Motor Car Dealers' association claimed the first sale of the show, a Chrysler coupe. He also reported a Chrysler standard sedan and a Maxwell sedan sold. W. H. Court of the Court Motor Co. announced the sale of a Cadillac coach Saturday night. The Jellison Motor Co. reported a Star standard sedan sold.

A welcome feature that greeted visitors at the show last night was a number of large gas heating stoves, placed at convenient intervals that kept the tent comfortably warm throughout the evening. The show will continue this afternoon and tonight and during the remainder of the week. Prediction of continued crowds was made by President Clark.

"We feel that we have something on other automobile shows," Mr. Clark said. "The exhibits are not so large and so many that they are tired out in making the rounds. The crowds have been large, but not uncomfortable. They have been such that personal attention could be given everyone at all times. This lends to the satisfaction of those attending an automobile show."

Whitney Boys' Chorus
To Banquet Tonight

Glendale boys of the local organization of the Whitney Boys' chorus will have their first social event tonight, when they will meet for a banquet, in the social hall at Glendale Presbyterian church, given by their mothers. Plans are for serving over six-five boys. Following the dinner Mr. Whitney and others will speak and the boys will give a stunt program. The Glendale chorus was organized three months ago. Since that time the membership has grown to forty boys and the chorists has sung with the Los Angeles chorus and in neighboring cities.

Plans are under way for a three-day tour late this month. Artists of the chorus are Irwin Keo, accompanist and pipe-organist; and George Thomas, pianist. Officers are Robert Perry, president; Dustin Smith, vice-president; Maurice Widows, director. Boys interested in joining are asked to be present at the rehearsal next Tuesday night at the Presbyterian church.

ATWATER DELEGATES TO ATTEND MEETING

Representatives of All Improvement
Associations In First Ward to Convene at Van Nuys Tonight

Executive officers of six improvement associations of the southern portion of the first councilmanic ward, including Atwater Park, met at 3218 Glendale boulevard last night and agreed on a course of action to be followed at a meeting of all civic bodies of the first ward tonight at Van Nuys.

Representatives of the Atwater Community Park Avenue, Ivanhoe Hills, East Hollywood, Glendale Avenue and Riverside Drive Improvement associations attended the meeting. E. E. Lampton, candidate from Atwater Park, spoke briefly, declaring himself strongly in favor of municipal ownership of public utilities. What action was decided upon at the meeting was not announced.

Arthur M. Gilman, P. E. Lipscomb and C. E. Hurley will represent Atwater Park at the general meeting of all chambers of commerce and improvement associations of the First ward, at Van Nuys tonight. At this meeting permanent organization of a First Ward club, to determine upon a logical candidate to be backed by the whole ward, will be effected.

Discuss Grammar School

The matter of establishing a second grammar school in the Atwater district, to be located north of Glendale boulevard, instead of making additions to the present school on Atwater avenue, has been referred to the building committee and the superintendent of schools by the board of education, according to an announcement made by Robert A. O'Dell, president of the board.

In the meantime, it is announced that residents of the district most directly affected by the proposed establishment of a new school, will go before the next meeting of the Atwater Community Improvement association and request that that body direct a letter to the board of education advocating the new school project. Such a letter of endorsement from the improvement association has been asked for by President O'Dell in dealing further with the question.

Special Meeting Planned

Special meetings to commence on March 17 and last for a period of two weeks are being arranged by Rev. J. W. Utter, pastor of the Neighborhood Christian church. These meetings will be in charge of Professor Purvis, noted singer and chorus leader, and Rev. Charles R. Hudson, state Sunday school superintendent.

Start New Building

Anthony G. Rogelmair has commenced construction of the first fire-proof building on Los Feliz road to conform with the new zoning ordinance that recently went into effect on that thoroughfare. The building will be 40 feet by 120 feet and will be of hollow-tile construction.

Vacationing in East

E. R. Chandler, owner of extensive real estate holdings on Los Feliz road, has left for a three-months' stay in cities of the east. Mr. Chandler's trip is of a strictly business nature, it was stated.

Church Piano Secured

Announcement was made today by Clayton E. Decker that the fund for the piano at the Neighborhood Christian church was growing daily. The piano has already been purchased and placed in the church auditorium. Practice for Easter services has been commenced by the Christian church choir.

Want Street Pavement

Property owners along Silverlake boulevard will appeal to the Atwater Community Improvement association for assistance in getting the street properly paved and the ruts and bumps removed. According to residents of the section, Silverlake boulevard is now nearly impassable because of the poor street. Several attempts to have improvement work done have failed, but another strenuous effort will be made, it was said.

The five-room house of Orvis T. Page, located at 3940 Glendale place, has been sold to Herman E. Triebe. The consideration was $15,000. C. S. Decker handled the deal. Mr. Triebe is a member of the salvage department of the United States Veterans' bureau in Los Angeles.

Store Room Leased

The remaining unoccupied store room in the new Shugart building at 3208 Glendale boulevard has been leased for a delicatessen and tea room, according to an announcement by P. E. Lipscomb of the Arthur M. Gilman real estate firm, today.

Easter's Preparations
By Grand View Pastor

Rev. George W. Thomas, pastor of the Grand View Community church announces that a preparatory class has recently been formed and meetings are held Wednesday afternoons at 4:30 o'clock in the pastor's study. The classes will be held until Easter Sunday. A special study of "His Last Week" is being held at the prayer meeting services on Wednesday nights at the Grand View church.

COMMENT by GIL A. COWAN

Charles Gates Dawes, vice-president of these United States, is a man of admirable qualities. His first action as presiding officer of the Senate was to sit on Old Man Tradition. Would there were men of Dawes stripe at the head of the state, war and navy departments, not to mention a few others.

Dawes is a man who gets things done. He will see several pudge old senators in their grave before he quits milling around and making history. The people are heartily in sympathy with a man who accomplishes results. The first senator to pop off and tell the world what he thinks of Dawes is going to have a funeral in his own home hallway.

Never before in the history of the United States has there been quite such a combination of good men in any administration. Some changes might be made for the better, but taken as a whole the president and his cabinet represent a fairly good cross section of American life.

It is said to note that Secretary of the Navy Wilbur is being covered by the Annapolis group, as well as the president, into being more or less of a figurehead. Southern Californians would like to see Curtis D. express himself now that he will not embarrass the Republican party in a campaign.

Also, we should like to see Secretary of War Weeks removed at the earliest possible moment for demoting "Billy" Mitchell as head of the air service. If there is to be no "cast" to officials, let it be tied to the indicted parties, certainly not to the people's witnesses.

And if Herbert Hoover doesn't toe the line in protecting the irrigationists' interests in the ratification of the Boulder canyon dam pact for the Colorado river, let him resign rather than do the bidding of the "special interests", principal among which are owners of lands below the Mexican border in the Imperial valley.

If these parties think the public is going to be fooled into the construction of a low dam across the Colorado and a "sell out" to the power companies, they have another guess coming. The hidden hand in politics is being watched and it matters not how much money, or prestige, they can't get away with it so long as an American Legion post remains in the Imperial valley. This writer knows what he's talking about, too.

It's funny to see the ladies—God bless 'em—chasing around the capital at Sacramento and stirring up trouble. From a newspaper man's standpoint they mean another yard or two of copy, but from the politicians' standpoint they mean an argument.

Of more interest than the women, however, are the churchmen found around the lobbies. The Knights of Columbus, the Protestant Church Federation, the Seventh Day Adventists and representatives of the Episcopal diocese and the Jewish synagogue are at the capital.

We'll wager they are up to something! Quien sabe.

For Deep Chest
Colds

All colds should be treated with vapors, for vapors alone can carry the medication DIRECTLY to the air passages and lungs.

Vicks is a "vapor" treatment in salve form. For deep chest colds you first apply hot wet towels over throat and chest to open the pores, then massage briskly with Vicks for 5 minutes, spread on thickly and cover with a flannel cloth.

Vicks not only penetrates like a poultice or plaster, but the ingredients, vaporized by the body heat, are inhaled all night long.

This double action usually checks the most stubborn cold overnight.

For Constipation

Try Radium Water FREE for ten days

Radium water is Nature's method of correcting constipation. Nature, as you know, does not favor the use of drugs or purgatives.

The value of this water was first discovered at Hot Springs, Arkansas, where results that seem almost miraculous have been accomplished.

But Hot Springs, Arkansas, and other health resorts, could not be taken to the people. All who were to benefit had to go there. So most people have never been able in the past to enjoy the health values of radium water.

Now You Can

This has all been changed by a remarkable and important discovery.

The Radium Ore Revigator enables you to return to any kind of water the vital radio-activity which is responsible for the results obtained at Hot Springs.

You do it in your own home easily and inexpensively. A healthful, tasteless water.

Test At Our Expense

Therefore people by the hundreds are installing Revigators to enjoy the natural health benefits of radium water.

And we believe that you will want to do likewise once you fully understand.

By CORNELIA KANE RATHBONE

"He did have one; he kept it in the right-hand middle drawer. I have seen it often," the doctor exclaimed.

Flint pulled open and slammed shut all the drawers in the writing table. "It is not here now," he announced.

"But if that were the weapon used it would mean wouldn't it, that the person who shot Mr. Hurst knew where to find it?" The doctor asked the question with a startled indrawing of the breath.

"Precisely," replied Flint. "I don't see how, if Mr. Hurst were sitting at his desk, anybody could open a drawer and take the pistol without his knowledge," said Graham.

"That is a bit of a problem, I admit," returned Flint. "There is more than one answer to it, though," boomed in the inspector. "The person may have possessed himself or herself, of it before Mr. Hurst seated himself at the desk, some time, let us say, during the quarrel overheard by the kitchen maid. Or, again, it may have been taken earlier in the day and held in readiness for a convenient opportunity."

Graham was thinking quickly. "Or may not the house have been entered after the servants left," he interrupted, "and the pistol found by Mr. Hurst's return, caught it up in alarm and concealed himself—behind those curtains, for instance?" He spoke with intimate knowledge of the curtains, they being those behind which he himself had hidden for a breathless five minutes. "Then, if discovered," he went on, improvising rapidly, "may he not have fired in self-defense? This occurs to me because when I carried Mrs. Hurst to her room I found a window open there; somewhat unusual, I thought, in weather like this."

"A second-story man—that's your idea, eh? But Mrs. Hurst's account is that she was in her room until after the murder," Breitman reminded him.

"Of course, that destroys my window theory," Graham admitted. "But there are other windows—or a door may have been left unlocked."

"Sergeant Bassett found the front door open, you remember," said Flint.

Graham could have blessed him. A sudden thought flashed into his mind. How was it, he questioned for the first time, that Sergeant Bassett had found the door open? Had it, after all, not closed when he thought he had heard it slam to? Or had somebody else been in the house while he was following that cry in the dark, somebody who had slipped away while he was on the floor above—somebody in haste?

Breitman's voice called him back to the present. "The idea is possible, but not probable," the inspector was saying. "A burglar, an ordinary burglar, that is, doesn't shoot; it's too dangerous if he's caught. Besides, there is the time element to be considered, and the voices—a woman's voice, mind you. A man doesn't quarrel with a burglar—he calls the police."

"Or gets shot," persisted Graham, "and mayn't we have been making too much of the time element? If Mrs. Hurst hadn't been frightened and mistated the hour at which she entered the library, time would have entered less into the question. Now see, according to Colonel Sanford, Mr. Hurst must have returned home shortly after 8 o'clock; according to the kitchen maid the quarrel was going on at twenty minutes after 8—when it started we don't know, but, according to my uncle's housekeeper, Mr. Hurst telephoned at half-past 8, so presumably the altercation was then over. Now it wasn't till well after 9 o'clock that Sergeant Bassett discovered the body. That gives from three quarters of an hour to an hour for all sorts of things to happen. Why isn't it possible for Mr. Hurst to have left the library and gone to his room, so giving a thief the opportunity to enter, ransack the desk, come upon the pistol, and, when startled by the sound of—say, of an opening door, instinctively seize the weapon and dart behind the curtains?"

"Huh!" growled the inspector. "You've got some imagination, Mr. Graham."

Graham bowed. "You flatter me, inspector," he laughed. "I will imagine some more, then. We will suppose that Mr. Hurst goes to his safe, gets out his old will—to burn it, perhaps, or who knows what, and returning to his desk, leaves the safe door open. The thief behind the curtain just opposite watches. Let us say that he sees something in the safe when the door is open that he wants the worst way, wants so much that he would risk pretty much anything to get it. Mr. Hurst out of the way—and it's his. Mr. Hurst is busily writing. Out from behind the curtain slips the thief, pistol in hand. It is a ticklish thing to do, for a turn of Mr. Hurst's head and he is discovered. He edges his way along the wall, silently, step by step. After an endless time he reaches that table there, just in line with the desk." Graham crossed the room and took up his stand by the table. "Just here, say, Mr. Hurst can't see him unless he turns completely around. The man can hear Mr. Hurst's pen scratching—scratching it so loud to him that he is afraid it may be drowning the sound of possibly approaching footsteps. He waits for a moment to steady himself. Then he steals across the room, stealthy as a cat. Mr. Hurst is so absorbed in his writing that he hears nothing. The thief is close behind him now. Aroused at last, Mr. Hurst turns with a start. The thief raises his hand—so, and fires. The shot enters Mr. Hurst's temple; he falls forward on the desk—dead."

The three men were watching Graham breathlessly. The doctor rasped audibly. "You might be the murderer yourself," he exclaimed.

"How about the paper Mr. Hurst was writing?" asked Flint after a moment. Graham thought he discerned a quizzical smile on the detective's thin lips. His inventive powers must be called on still further.

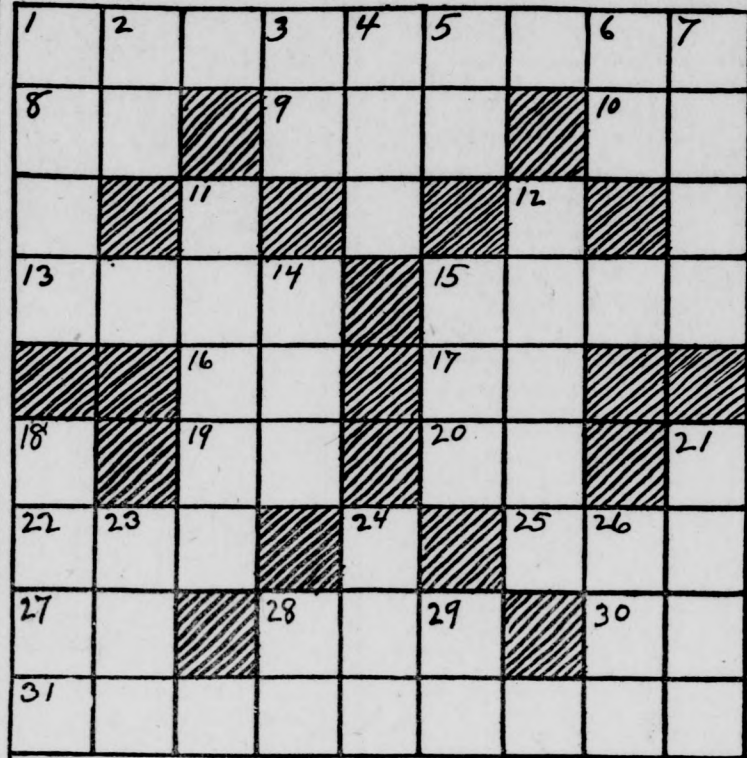

"The paper? Or, burned to make it look like an inside job, perhaps."

"Huh!" granted Breitman again.

HOW TO SOLVE THE CROSS WORD PUZZLE

The way to solve the Cross Word Puzzle is to fill in the white squares of the diagram with the words which agree with the accompanying definitions. The definitions are numbered to correspond with the numbers on the diagram. Any word defined in the text under "HORIZONTAL" will begin at its number, shown on the diagram, and will extend all the way across to the first black space to the right of that number. That is, the word must begin in the square that contains its identifying number, and extend as far as the white squares continue uninterruptedly. Any word defined under "VERTICAL" will also begin in the white space that contains its number, but will extend downward as far as the white spaces remain uninterruptedly.

The three men were watching Graham breathlessly. The doctor rasped audibly. "You might be the murderer yourself," he exclaimed.

"How about the paper Mr. Hurst was writing?" asked Flint after a moment. Graham thought he discerned a quizzical smile on the detective's thin lips. His inventive powers must be called on still further.

"The paper? Or, burned to make it look like an inside job, perhaps."

"Huh!" granted Breitman again.

THE GLENDALE

Her kisses were golden. Burning, headless blood coursed through her veins. She danced amid the tinsel of a Broadway show, wed the youth of her heart without knowing his true nature. Such is "Cheap Kisses," C. Gardner Sullivan's gripping photodrama of a girl's heart, which shows today for the last times at the Glendale theatre.

Jazz, love, wine and song are here woven into a vivid fabric of wilfulness and folly. Every element of modern fast life is shown, with Cullen Landis and Lillian Rich in the leading roles, supported by a cast including Vera Reynolds, Louise Dresser (Mrs. Jack Gardner of Glendale), Lincoln Steedman and Jean Hersholt. John Ince directed.

The bill concluding today at the Glendale theatre also offers Guy Alden and Sylvia Lor, Kosloff pupils, in a colorful California dancing act, an Orpheum headliner, conceived and staged by Californians. Five other Orpheum acts are on the program. Wednesday and Thursday the picture is Jacqueline Logan in the Ralph Ince production, "The House of Youth," based on the Maude Hadford Warren novel.

GATEWAY THEATRE

Harriet Costello's brilliant novel picturization, "The Tenth Woman" is showing for the last times today, starring Beverly Bayne, John Roche, June Marlow and others at the Gateway Theatre. The center of interest in the photoplay is a woman who is unusually mysterious. Wednesday's program is the usual bill of select vaudeville and the picture, "The Bandolero," with Pedro De Cordoba and Rene Adoree.

THE T. D. & L.

Von Stroheim's "Greed" concludes today at the T. D. & L. theatre, "Contraband," with Lois Wilson and Noah Beery, opens Wednesday.

UNCLE WIGGILY'S PIANO LAMP

Uncle Wiggily was out walking with his muskrat lady housekeeper, Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy, one morning, when, right in front of the eleven and twelve cent store, they met Mrs. Twistytail, the lady pig.

"Oh, how are you, Nurse Jane?" squealed Mrs. Twistytail. "Fine and dandy," answered Miss Fuzzy Wuzzy. "You look well yourself, Mrs. T.; as handsomeness as ever."

"Don't make fun of me!" grunted the pig lady, who was fat and knew it. "Uncle Wiggily looks well, though. I suppose you are out buying piano lamps today," she went on. "That's what I'm doing."

"Buying piano lamps? No. What do you mean?" asked Nurse Jane.

"Oh, the eleven and twelve cent store is having a special sale of piano lamps for nineteen cents today," squealed Mrs. Twistytail. "I bought two for the breakfast room. I thought that's what you came out for. Look, aren't they wonderful?"

Indeed, the window of the eleven and twelve cent store was filled with lamps, but as soon as Uncle Wiggily looked at them he thought of his pocketbook, how lean and thin it was, ever since Christmas. So the bunny rabbit gently stepped on Nurse Jane's tail. And whenever he did this Nurse Jane knew he wanted to whisper something to her.

"Now the piano lamp is finished," he said. "Bring up your rocker, Nurse Jane, sit down under it and read the paper. I'll do the same."

It was evening by the time Uncle Wiggily had finished making the piano lamp, so, lighting the candles, he and Nurse Jane, sat down to read.

"This is as good a lamp as we could have bought for nineteen cents in the eleven and twelve cent store," said the bunny.

"Of course it is!" agreed Nurse Jane, and just then the dishpan came loose, in some way, and fell down on her head. And the candles tipped over and spilled hot wax on Uncle Wiggily.

"Ouch!" cried Nurse Jane, though she wasn't much hurt.

"Oh, trolley cars!" cried the bunny, provoked and put out like "Something is wrong. A nail must have dropped out. But I'll fix it."

He lighted a candle, nailed the dishpan back on top of the broomstick, and then he and Nurse Jane stood looking at the queer piano lamp before again sitting under it.

All of a sudden the bungalow door opened and in popped the Fuzzy Fox.

"How nice and cozy it is in here, with a piano lamp and papers to read!" barked the Fox.

"I'll sit down a minute before I nibble your ears, Uncle Wiggily!" Down he sat under the dishpan lamp, but, all of a sudden, another nail came out. Down clattered the dishpan on the Fox. Down fell the candles, one spilling hot wax on him and the other burning his nose. "Oh, this is a trap! A trick to catch me!" howled the bad chap. "I'm going home!"

And away he ran.

"Well," said Uncle Wiggily with a smile, as he broke the broomstick and tossed that and the rest of the home-made lamp and the window. "I guess I'm not as clever as I thought. But, anyhow, I fooled the Fox." The next day he bought a regular piano lamp at the five and ten cent store, and he and Nurse Jane lived happily ever after.

And if the dozen of eggs don't go to the movies and plopp down in the chair where the elephant wants to sit, I'll tell you next about Nucle Wiggily's paper of pins.

Diet And Health

By LULU HUNT PETERS, M. D.

YOU MAY BE IMMUNE TO DIPHTHERIA

The Schick Test
You may be immune to diphtheria; in other words, you will not "catch" it under ordinary circumstances. This is true of other infectious diseases also.

Do you know why this is so? It is because you have already in your body the antitoxin of these diseases. In the case of diphtheria, for instance, if the diphtheria germs settle in your throat, this antitoxin neutralizes their poison and makes them harmless to you. A much smaller percentage of children are immune to diphtheria than adults.

There has been a simple test perfected, known as the Schick test, to determine whether or not you and your children have this protective force already in your bodies and are immune. This test consists simply of an injection of a tiny bit of the diphtheria toxin or poison (not the germs themselves) in the skin of the forearm.

If antitoxin is present in your body, it immediately neutralizes this little bit of toxin so there is practically no reaction on the site of the injection. If your body hasn't the protective antitoxin then there is a little area of redness and swelling which gradually subsides in a week or two.

About two years ago I had a bad sore throat with patches on membrane of the tonsils. When I first discovered them was worried for they looked like diphtheria patches. Suddenly, with a feeling of great relief, I realized that it couldn't be diphtheria for I was immune to that disease. I had had this Schick test and it was negative. You can realize how comforting that knowledge was to me.

Susceptibility of Various Ages to Diphtheria
The Schick reaction has been carried out for over six years at the Willard Parker Hospital for Infectious Diseases in New York. The following table is given by the hospital, showing the percentage of diphtheria susceptibles, as shown by the Schick test. Notice that from six months to three years the susceptibility is greatest; then it gradually decreases until adult life when but 12 per cent are susceptible:

Age..... Susceptible
Under 3 months.....15 per cent

Dinner: Rump Roast of Beef Brown Gravy, Baked Potatoes, Onions, Baked Apples, Fruit Salad, Coffee

Mrs. T. H.: "I have splashed some white paint on my mahogany victrola. How can I get it off?"
Answer: Apply either turpentine or kerosene if the paint stains are fairly new. If, however, they are old and hard, you must soften them with a commercial paint remover, then scrape off with a blunt-edged tool or with rags.

M. M.: "Please publish a list of suitable articles to put in a Hope Chest."

Answer: Send me a stamped, self-addressed envelope and I shall take pleasure in mailing you my multipaged article on "The Bride's Trousseau and Household Linen."

Mrs. C. C.: "I bought a five-pound can of honey thinking that my family would enjoy it. But they do not like it, and I am wondering if there is any way in which I could use it to make cake?"

Answer: Yes indeed. Here is a delicious recipe: Honey Cakes: Cream one-third cup of butter sugar; add two well beaten eggs and the juice and rind of one-half lemon. Now sift together two and one-eighth cups of pastry flour, two teaspoons of baking powder and a tiny pinch of salt and add this dry mixture to the mixing bowl alternately with three-quarters of a cup of honey. When well mixed stir in three-quarters of a cup of broken walnut meats and turn the batter into greased cupcake pans to bake in a hot oven for 25 minutes. Or, if you prefer, bake the batter in a greased loaf-cake pan for 40 minutes in a moderate oven. (Note: Many housewives do not keep pastry flour on hand. But an excellent substitute for it can be made by adding two level table-spoons of dry cornstarch powder to every cupful of ordinary bread flour used.)

E. W. O.: "Tell me how to make a balsam pillow? I expect to be in a locality, next summer, where these trees are plentiful."

Answer: Simply strip the branches, using the needles and finely-cut tips of the twigs. First fill a plain white muslin case with the balsam, then use any kind of covering you please—cotton, linen, silk, etcetera.

ANSWERED LETTERS

Mary Ellen.—There are many simple exercises that will help strengthen the muscles of the eyes, rolling the eyeballs being the simplest. Another set of exercises follow: Look straight ahead at some object, and hold the position for a few seconds; without moving, look up, down, a number of times; then to right and to left, a number of times. Look forward to an object, and then raise and lower the upper lid without moving the under one.

Tired eyes are also benefited by using hot and cold compresses alternately.

Mrs. T. H.—You can substitute olive oil for almond in making up the cream. Unless you can get the best grade of almond oil, it is advisable to use olive oil if it is an easy matter to get a fine quality of the latter, because so much of it is imported for table use.

Katherine K.—Cold hands and feet indicate poor circulation. Massage will help, but such people should wear warm underwear during the winter weather, and be sure to warm the feet thoroughly before going to sleep. A hot water bottle will keep the feet of such people warm, and induce refreshing sleep.

M. E.—Let another barber cut your hair next time as there is no reason why you should have all this trouble to keep it from falling over your face. There is no need for either hairpins or barrettes with the present style of bobbing the hair.

Anna J.—The formula for the pilocarpine hair tonic is arranged for eight ounces. It should look like clear water with a sediment of sulphur at the bottom which should be shaken through the tonic before using. Perhaps the druggist doubled the quantity the first time, but the second time you had the prescription filled it should have looked as I described.

Mrs. G. T. D.—The oil glands have to do with the little pits from which the hairs come, known as hair follicles. When they function naturally, we are not conscious of the process at all, but when they are sluggish the skin gets dry and scaly, and the scalp gets into an unhealthy condition.

Movie Sheik Now Can Find Love Making Easier, Modistes Admit

By AILEEN LAMONT

Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1925.
NEW YORK, March 10.—Many a sheik and movie hero has been embarrassed lately when it came to putting his arm about a feminine waist. For frocks have been waistless it wasteful. Now, however, the youthful dresses are marking the waste by broad belts of leather or gold skin. Some of the frocks are slightly bloused over these and not even a casual lovermaker can go wrong.

"What is called by the designer 'a fountain of paradise plumes' gives chic to the latest of the plot straw spring hats imported from London. Of course if one cannot afford a fountain, it is often possible to have at least a spray of paradise.

Plaid Taffeta Frock

Do you want to be different? Then wear a plaid taffeta frock made with a tight bodice and the bustle skirt of the 1880's. If you do, you will at least have the sanction and approval of so great a designer as Mr. Paul Poiret, who includes such a model in his latest collection, according to cables to his connections here.

The jeweled and beaded effects which have been such a predominant feature of the evening frocks, have made their way downward to the evening slippers. The pumps are covered with embroidery either worked in silks or brilliant hues, metallic threads or in bright colored beads.

M. E. CHURCH TEAM BEATEN BY OILERS

Sixteen Markers in Third Quarter Too Much for Squad to Overcome

Coming from behind in the third quarter and shooting baskets with wild abandon, the Standard Oilers sprung a surprise last night when they defeated the M. E. Church team, 33 to 18, in a Glendale Merchants' league game, played at the Harvard High school gym. Isehnouer, center for the Oilers, was instrumental in overcoming the churchmen, making 22 points.

The churchmen were handicapped by the absence of Weise, one of the best centers in the league. Weise was injured in the Calla Lily-Churchmen game last Thursday night, and Saturday had to undergo a minor operation for a bone bruise on one elbow.

The churchmen were leading at the end of the first quarter 7 to 5 and in the second quarter the churchmen added four points, while the Oilers added only three markers. At the end of the third quarter the Oilers had taken the lead, 24 to 14, and in the final session the Oilers added nine points, while holding the churchmen to four points. Coaches Wolfe and Hayhurst officiated.

The lineup:

Standard Oil	1	2	3	4	Tl.
Stoff (2)	1	2	3	4	18
Ketchum (8)	1	2	3	4	18
Isehnouer (22)	1	2	3	4	22
Schneck (1)	1	2	3	4	1
Bryant	1	2	3	4	1
Substitutions—Berriman for Bryant; McCormack for Dick.

The result of last night's game does not change the league standing, as the churchmen now have four wins and four defeats, giving them a percentage of .500, in fourth place. The Oilers remain in fifth place with three wins and four defeats, boosting their percentage from .333 to .429.

The snappiest battle of the entire league is expected tonight when the Calla Lily crew and the Radios take the floor to fight for second place. The milkmen are in third place with five wins and two defeats, their percentage being .714. The Radios are in second place with five wins and one defeat, their percentage being .833.

A victory for the milkmen tonight will put them in second place with a percentage of .750, and force the Radios down to third position with a percentage of .714. Should the Radios win tonight their percentage will jump to .857, and the milkmen will have a percentage of .625.

The only extra period game played since the start of the league was between the Radios and Calla Lily on January 27. It was second game for both teams and the Radios won in the extra period, 23 to 27. The Calla Lily aggregation has won all but one of their games that have followed, while the Radios have bowed to the Hull Trucks, who also beat the milkmen.

The milkmen surprised local followers of basketball by trouncing the M. E. church team last Thursday, 35 to 13, and moving up into third place. The M. E. churchmen and the creamery lads finished the first round tied for third place. The defeat was unexpected in view of the victory the churchmen had over the Hull Trucks, league leaders.

Tomorrow night the Hull trucks will meet the Christian church and the following night will clash with the Legion. The truckmen hold victories over both these teams, beating the churchmen 56 to 9, and the Legion 65 to 25 in the first round.

Van Gilder Is Staging Comeback This Year

TARPON SPRINGS, Fla., March 10.—With the mercury dangling around 102, Manager Sisler of the St. Louis Browns paused long enough today to impart the belief that Elam Van Gilder has joined the ranks of the come-backs. Van Gilder has found his old stride, Sisler said, and looks good for a fast season.

JOHN B. FOSTER'S VIEWS

Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1923

AVAILON, SANTA CATALINA ISLAND, Calif., March 10.—Florida, in her sunniest moods, and California at her best would be hard pressed to provide a site to compare with the island play ground on which the Chicago Cubs are making ready for the coming baseball season.

Three hours across the blue water from Los Angeles at Avalon, is located a diamond which has no peer in the United States. It is a veritable carpet of emerald velvet. The turf, mowed each day to restrain its luxuriant growth is like kid gloves to hand. It recovers in one night from the cruel ravages of baseball spikes. It is a baseball field incomparable and the Cubs romp upon it like kids who are seeing grass for the first time.

Mountains more than 2200 feet high are the background of the Cubs playground. They surround it completely, save for one pass which gives on the bounding Pacific. Up the side of one of these mountains, where he can sit on his veranda and look down on the baseball team at play, stands the house of William Wrigley—monarch of all he surveys, baseball team and island included.

The background of the Cub's park in Chicago once was a coal yard. Imagine that as against these huge verdure-clad mountains—that climb into the air and form a running course for wild goats galore—perhaps descendants of the goats that Robinson Crusoe found in southern seas.

Rabbit Maranville, irrepressible rascal, abounding with energy, says it makes him feel almost like a goat himself when he looks at those mountains.

"But I'm nobody's god darned goat this year," he hastens to add. "I have trained on everything from canebreak to one of those brush-filled corn fields to which Walter Hapgood used to take us, but this thing is so big in the background and so fine in the foreground, that I wake up scared at night and pinch myself to find out whether I'm not the hero of one of those stories where you go to sea and get cast away on an island chuck full of wild ducks and griddle cakes and maple syrup."

Bill Killefer, manager, has changed his first intention about the Chicago infield. That seemed to be the outstanding fact about the Cubs so far.

Instead of playing Maranville at second base where he played so well last season for Pittsburgh he is returning Maranville to shortstop.

"Rabbit wanted to go to his old job again," said Killefer in a matter of fact manner, "so I am training him at short. Adams will play second, Grimm first, and Friberg third."

So there is another infield that will give cause for conjecture. This new adjustment of players, by its great speed and by the manner in which the players are interrelated, may bring about a tremendous difference in the achievements of the Cubs before the season is ended.

Maranville is in better shape to play baseball than he has been for three years. He fits in admirably with Adams and he has given confidence to Friberg at third. Grimm is no less efficient than he was with Pittsburgh. The change will give Chicago an infield of alternated veterans and youngsters. The oldsters tend to steady the youngsters. The plan is working excellently right now. If it continues, this infield of the Cubs will be much better than it was last year and it will rate up on the heels of other infields in the National League.

WASHINGTON IN REAL GOOD SHAPE

Stanley Harris Expects To Cop Pennant Again In Coming Season

Gy DAVIS J. WALSH For International News Service. TAMPA, Fla., March 10.—If past performances are worth their weight in pink sleeve garters, the Washington Senators today are 25 per cent a better ball club than the outfit which won the championship of the world no later than last October.

This statement was made today by Stanley Harris, the managerial Horatio Alger of major league baseball. Stanley, it would seem, is not one of those "I-view-with-alarm" spectators. Quite the contrary, he points with pride.

The oratorical gesture in this case is directed toward what might be termed exhibit A, comprising three gentlemen who combine age, experience and the ability to fool all of the batters some of the time. The trio is made up of Dutch Reuther, Stanley Coveleskie and Veon Gregg, acquired in mid-winter deals that cost the club less than nothing at all in player strength.

Only One Provision

Lest his statements be confounded with those of the attorney for the defense, Stanley coppers his bet with one proviso. He asks only that the men live up to their immediate past.

Granting that they do, the juvenile is willing to bet his right to breathe that Reuther and Coveleskie will win thirty games between them and that Gregg will add at least ten more.

"They don't represent all the paper strength we have gained, however," quoth Stanley. "We almost lost the pennant and held the world's series because we did not have an adequate reserve infielder. We have him now in Mike McNally, who can jump in and play second, third or shortstop over almost any stated period."

Experience Helps

"Bluege and McNeely will be better for the experience they gained last year. The latter broke in at a very tough period for a recruit, but with a world's series under his belt he will play with greater confidence. Bluege right now looks like one of the great infielders of baseball. Peckinpaugh has completely recovered. Ruel, Judge, Rice, Goslin and Zachary are as good as they ever were and Walter Johnson and Mordridge still have plenty of baseball left in them."

In brief, Harris feels that he has bettered his hand on the draw and is sitting back serene in the knowledge that the Yankees and Tigers, the admitted contenders, will be forced to do likewise in order to beat him.

DYNAMITERS DROP GAME TO JEFF HIGH

Visitors Make Ten Runs As Local Team Is Held Scoreless

By ROSS M. RUSSELL, JR. Of The Evening News Staff. In a slow, uninteresting game the Jefferson High pelota team wind up the Glendale pill tossers yesterday on Broadway field to the tune of 10 to 0. The Democrats knew the diamond game and played it well. Their team last year won the City league championship and yesterday's outfit which Coach Lopez wheeled out to Glendale was the same nine with the exception of the backstop and the right gardener.

Coach Wolfe started Elsner for Glendale but Curly was pretty well gone by the fourth so Charley Smith was sent in. Charley's bad arm hampered him severely and the Jeff team garnered four hits for as many runs. The last two innings Kefy Brooke had the Democrats guessing, and had the game gone longer the Dynamiters might have won.

What's back of this shift in cigarette popularity?

Is it only a desire for change?

Is it a matter of price?

Or is it all a question of taste?

No—mere desire for change will not explain why so many thousands of smokers all over the country are changing from other cigarettes to Chesterfield.

It's something more fundamental.

No—price does not account for this sweeping turn-about in cigarette popularity, for Chesterfield is sold at the popular price—it costs the same as any of the largest selling brands.

Yes—that's the answer. It is taste and taste alone that explains Chesterfield's sweeping gains. And taste is a matter of tobacco quality.

We state it as our honest belief that the tobaccos used in Chesterfield are of finer quality (and hence of better taste) than in any other cigarette at the price.

Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co.

—and this belief is shared by cigarette smokers the country over.

COLOR PLAYS PART IN SPRING STYLES

Most Decided Change Seen In Widely Different Front and Backs

By AILEEN LAMONT
Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1923.

NEW YORK, March 10.—There is both a distinction and a difference in the fronts and backs of the modern article of attire. The front and rear views of the present day woman are as different as fore and aft. For fronts and backs are widely opposed, both as to cut and color. One frock seen on Park avenue today, for example, had a back of plain black satin while the front was of rose colored crepe de chine pleated from neck to hem in the form of two panels banded at the bottom with black. If the fronts are flounced, or pleated, the backs are plain. Flares at the hem lines seldom extend all the way around the skirts. If side pleats or godets are used to give fullness, fronts and backs probably are plain and flares are strictly confined to one direction.

Unusually Bulges
"This too solid flesh," is held responsible. Designers have discovered that if unsightly bulges in the feminine figure cannot be removed, they can at least be subdued and concealed by the dressmakers' art. The one-sided effects have been developed to disguise protuberances which mar the fashionable and difficult straight line.

Color has as much to do with success in this attempt as cut, and the lining of coats with the same material as that used for the frock underneath has been an immense boon. This tends to blur the line of the frock and conceal both deficiencies and excesses of flesh.

The one-sided vogue has spread to other details of the costumes. Shoes have toes of one type and color of leather and counters and heels in contrasts. Hats are cocked over one ear, entirely concealing it, while the other is left bare, and emphasized by a dangling earring.

Hat Style Worries
Hats offer a much more difficult problem. One short, rather round faced matron tried on nearly every hat in a smart Fifty-seventh street shop in an effort to find a creation which would give a touch of piquancy to a round chin. She threw the last from her in disgust and declared: "Anybody with a face like mine ought to wear a shawl over her head."

This gave the milliner an idea and in twenty minutes with a small round shape and two scarfs provided the effect his customer had designed—and moreover, it was becoming.

LAWMAKERS PAY STANFORD HONOR

First Civil War Governor's Birthday Anniversary Remembered Today

SACRAMENTO, March 10.—Pausing in its business of law-making to pay tribute to California's first war governor, who helped to save the state to the union cause at the outbreak of Civil war, the state assembly yesterday celebrated the 101st anniversary of the birth of Leland Stanford.

Rev. Dr. Rudolph I. Coffey, chaplain of the Assembly, devoted his opening prayer to a eulogy of the former executive, recalling his "titanic energies in helping to build the first transcontinental railroad, without which California could never have achieved her present position of eminence and power."

The prayer ended with a plea that "his idealism may abide within this legislative body, where he was twice elected to serve in the United States Senate."

Canada Takes Action Against Rum Running

VANCOUVER, B. C., March 10.—Abolition of the right of private concerns to import liquor into Canada even "in bond," according to advices from Ottawa today, is the latest Canadian government plan to crush rum running between Vancouver and American ports. Realizing that enactment of such a policy would exterminate the rum runner entirely, so far as British Columbia is concerned, all the financial and political resources of the powerful rum ring are being marshalled at the Canadian capital today in an effort to head off this fatal policy.

RINGSIDE GOSSIP BY FAIR PLAY

Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1923.

NEW YORK, March 10.—Every time you look around to find some old friend in the boxing ranks there comes the report that the person in question can be located in California.

Save for the title holders who have been booked to meet native boms about the best fighter who has made the transcontinental trek is Harry Gattund.

Harry will best be remembered for a quick knockout of Sergeant Sammy Baker who was looked upon as having the best chance among the welters of the younger set of giving Mickey Walker a run for his title.

Baker has a long string of knockouts to his credit until he met Gattund and was forced to listen to the singing of the birds.

Harry's rise in the ring reads like a page out of Frank Merriwell. Deserving the amateur ranks he found a tough time getting bouts at the local New York clubs. Then one evening at the National Sports Alliance was staged a series of all-star bouts and, as with all affairs of this sort, very few of the advertised stars appeared to do battle.

Gattund was on hand and when an opponent was sought for Willie Jackson, Harry promptly offered himself. It is true that Jackson did not try to put the youngster away but at that the kid made a splendid showing and the crowd shouted itself hoarse in appreciation of his work.

That was all he received for the fight. However, this bout put him in demand and he started to make a record that is better than that of most of the eastern welters. He ought to make a big hit on the coast.

The writer hears that Kid Kaplan will be asked to meet Danny Kramer in a return bout in Philadelphia this summer. If the champion accepts the offer this is one fight that will be worth seeing.

That knockout of Kramer by Kaplan, while clean and convincing, was hardly warranted on the basis of the relative ability of the two lads and, if a line is drawn through the opponents both have met and the showing each has made, there is plenty of warrant for hooking the two feathers up in another battle.

NEW YORK ANNUAL DRY CLEAN-UP ON

New U. S. District Attorney Has New Broom Out In Padlock Orders

By C. G. MARSHALL
Special Correspondent to The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1923.

NEW YORK, March 10.—The annual spring drive to clean up Broadway is on.

Last year it was the prohibition director for this district who made the grand gesture when he closed and padlocked nine of the best known cafes and cabarets in the White Light district. This year it is Emory R. Buckner, in office as United States District Attorney less than a week, and "new brooming" to beat the band, who is starting the great mop-up.

There are fourteen night clubs and cabarets on the list Mr. Buckner has marked for immediate slaughter according to the announcement he made Thursday night in starting padlock proceedings against them.

That he is thoroughly in earnest is indicated by his statement that he spent $1,500 out of his own pocket to enable the young men in his office to make the rounds and gather evidence that will be needed to put the offending places out of business. Apparently he began his campaign even before he took office because he says the young men have been at it for more than a week.

Cards On Table
Mr. Buckner makes it plain that he hopes to succeed where others have failed by the simple process of rendering so much real estate untenable for twelve months under the padlock law that landlords themselves will be glad to assist him in his campaign. In that way he expects to reach the "man higher up."

A glance at the list of places against which the district attorney has asked injunctions prohibiting the sale of liquor and orders to padlock, shows the night-blooming New Yorker that most of his favorite haunts are threatened with extinction.

It includes the fashionable Lidovence, the Club Deauville, the Club Moritz, the restaurant L'Aiglon and the El Fey club, which entertained the Prince of Wales on more than one occasion last year.

SPORT CHATTER

By L. C. OWEN
Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1923.

BERKELEY, Calif., March 10.—The annual spring drive to "start something" between Miss Helen Willis, the American Olympic tennis champion, and Suzanne L'Englen, the French ace with a hair trigger temper, isn't going to get any further this year than it did last.

In fact, such a mutual admiration complex has arisen between the two—due in large part to the American girl's modesty and spirit of sportsmanship—that should they meet in international tournaments it may be with the joint idea that the other is the better of the two.

Miss Willis confessed as much here today—that she thinks Suzanne, in her top form, is a better tennis player than she. She qualified the psychological effects which such a viewpoint might have on her playing ability against the French girl, however, by declaring that her greatest ambition is to meet Suzanne in a championship match when the latter is "right" physically.

"When in her best form Miss L'Englen must be truly a wonderful player," says the pretty 18 year old champion, "for all good judges of tennis ability, both American and European who have seen her in action, are united in that viewpoint. I sincerely hope we can meet in a championship match at Forest Hills—and that both of us will be at our very best."

"Do I expect to beat her? I really believe Miss L'Englen is a better tennis player than I am—but I have hopes of beating her. That is only human."

The development of this entente cordiale between the American champion and the French queen of the courts must be credited largely to Miss Willis' diplomacy, which forestalled any such barrage of verbal broadsides as were exchanged between Suzanne and Molla Bjurstedt Mallory when the latter was American champion. Almost immediately after Miss Willis won the American leadership two years ago, vain efforts were made to inveigle her into comments on Mlle. L'Englen's playing. The latter was credited with keeping silent but turning up her nose disdainfully when she first heard that the Berkeley girl had annexed the American singles honors.

Then Miss Willis went to Wimbledon, England, and met Suzanne socially but not on courts. Mlle. L'Englen, it seems, was ill and unable to withdraw. Later she was unable to participate in the Paris Olympics.

When Miss Willis returned from abroad somebody asked her if Miss L'Englen had "run out" on her in the European matches. The Berkeley girl not only denied that such was the case but declared she had seen Suzanne while the latter was ill—and that she was very ill, indeed.

Eventually, the American girl's defense of her chief rival reached Mlle. L'Englen. The latter promptly came back with a declaration that Helen was one very grand tennis player and that when she finally lost her laurels she hoped it would be to Helen.

CHICAGO VOTERS DREAD ELECTION

Fear Violence When Windy City Goes To Polls On Street Car Issue

By O. L. SCOTT
Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1923.

CHICAGO, March 10.—The million or so tired Chicago commuters, strap hanging their way to and from work every day, are wondering drearily whether gunmen or ballots will decide April 7 whether the city shall invest half a billion dollars in surface car, elevated and subway improvements.

Remembrance of the sluggings, kidnappings of candidates, shootings and killings that attended the aldermanic elections a week ago is so fresh in the minds of voters that they are particularly concerned over the method of deciding the transportation problem, the most important voted on in many a day.

If by any chance they are permitted to do their choosing unhindered by guns, voters will decide April 7 whether the city shall take over the elevated and surface lines in Chicago, unify them, connect with a downtown subway and make improvement that will carry rapid transportation to great sections of the city now unserved.

Vigilance Committee
But what many of them expect is a recurrence of violence. This expectation has led Sigmund Seiser, president of the Municipal Voters' league of Chicago, to urge establishment of a vigilance committee to make exercise of suffrage here safe and effective.

"The fourth of July, minus patriotism, has moved over to election day in this city," Mr. Seiser says. "Each election now has its gunmen to say nothing of its 'singers,' kidnappers and ballot box robbers and stuffers. In all the present day commercialization of sacred things, nothing is so abhorrent and terrifying as this business of stealing elections. This ungentlemanly specter checks every honest move for better government."

SECURITY TRUST GIVES STANDING

Research Department Tells Statistics On Deeds And Mortgages

A report recently completed by the research department of the Security Trust and Savings Bank, gives some interesting statistics on the number and amount of mortgages and trust deeds recorded by Los Angeles county banks in 1924.

R. F. Kitterman, vice-president and manager of the Glendale Security bank, in discussing the report declared that it was indicative of the healthy condition of building in this county in a year which was admitted to have been a slow one in subdivision activity and which was falsely said to have been one of great depression by some people in other parts of the country.

Last year, according to the report, saw 18,709 mortgages and trust deeds recorded by banks of this county, representing $83,668,054 in loans. Of this number, the Security bank recorded 5,388, amounting to $26,096,969, or over 31 per cent. The California bank had the next highest standing, with 2,163 instruments recorded and $9,942,420 loaned or nearly 12 per cent.

The Pacific Southwest loaned $9,101,919; the Bank of Italy, $7,710,461; the Citizens Trust $6,471,223; The Hellman bank, $6,165,723; Union, $1,001,964; Bank of America, $893,590; all other banks in the city, $80; all other banks outside Los Angeles, but in the county, $12,281,331.

Mortgage Standing
The standing for number of mortgages and trust deeds recorded by these banks was as follows: Pacific Southwest, 1,990; Bank of Italy, 1,711; Hellman, 1,169; Citizens Trust, 1,050; Union, 185; Bank of America, 162; all other banks in the city, 880; all other banks outside the city but in the county, 4,013.

"We are of course very glad," said Mr. Kitterman, "that the Security bank made such a high percentage of the loans. One thing specially worthy of notice is that the average loan for all the banks was $4,472, which is another instance of the fact that small investors and property owners derive more benefit from banks than do very rich men."

Physicians in Convention Say Much Improvement Has Come About

COOLIDGE PARENT SPRY OLD FELLOW

President's Father Is Silent Like Son, Is 79 Years Young, Sprightly

By ROBERT T. SMALL
Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1923.

WASHINGTON, March 10.—Seventy-nine years of age and not a gray hair in his head, the black thatch is getting a little sparse in spots, but for all that he could easily pass as the brother rather than the father of the President of the United States.

Except for the coloring—the president being something of a red top—the resemblance between father and son is most striking. Washington has enjoyed studying Col. John C. Coolidge, of Plymouth Notch, at close range during this inaugural period.

In stature, in conformation, in feature the colonel and the president are as like as two peas in a pod. The Coolidges come of a wiry race. The colonel at 79 is as spry as most men thirty years his junior and can do a day's work with the best of them. The colonel appears to be a pledge that the president will live a long and useful life.

Silent Colonel
You don't have to know Colonel Coolidge very long to understand where he gets his silence from. You can't inveigle the colonel into an extended conversation. On inauguration day some one said to him:

"I would give worlds to know your innermost thoughts today as your son becomes president in his own right."

"Guess this is one of the days I don't do much thinking," came the dry reply.

But just the same the colonel is beginning to like the reflected light which beats about him. He's not in "who's who" yet on his own account, but is mentioned in the president's biography and that suffices. At first the visitors to the Coolidge homestead up Plymouth annoyed the colonel. But since coming to Washington he has told the White House circle that last summer something like 50,000 persons signed the register in the Coolidge household.

ISAAC RICHARDS TAKEN BY DEATH

Resident Of California Since 1898 Passes Away At Home In Glendale

Isaac N. Richards, 80, a resident of Southern California since 1898, died of heart failure at the home of his niece, Mrs. E. W. Cunningham, 1331 North Louise street, at noon yesterday, March 9, 1923. The widow Mrs. Susan L. Richards, a sister, Mrs. A. E. Leonard, Parkersburg, W. Va., and a nephew, Harry F. Armstrong, Los Angeles also survive him.

Richards had been in fairly good health, and yesterday forenoon was, apparently, feeling fine. He walked around the Cunningham yard and chatted with neighbors until shortly before noon.

Members of the family found him dead in the bath room when they went upstairs to call him for lunch.

Last April Mr. and Mrs. Richards came to Glendale from Los Angeles to live at the Cunningham home. Here they celebrated their golden wedding anniversary last fall. For a quarter of a century he had been active in the real estate field in Los Angeles. He was interested in oil development during the last fifteen years.

Born in Elizabeth, W. Va., in 1844, he was connected with a brokerage firm in Pittsburgh, Pa., for several years before coming to California. He was a prominent Mason, and was a member of Commandery No. 9, in Los Angeles.

Funeral plans have not been completed. The body is at the L. G. Sovern Co. mortuary.

DAWES GETS DOWN TO MOTHER EARTH

After Talk With Republican Heads 'Hell and Maria' Becomes Sphinx

By ROBERT T. SMALL
Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1925.
WASHINGTON, March 10.—After all is said and done, Vice President Dawes is making a very punctilious presiding officer of the Senate. Every time a senator rises on the floor, the vice-president arises. Someone suggested it was because he didn't want anybody to hit him while he was down. But the rising is just the general's own idea, and perhaps like other ideas, it will be discarded after closer acquaintance with the Senate and its ways.

General Dawes is of a nervous, impatient temperament and that is what is going to make his job such a difficult one. When he takes his place he sits first on the very edge of the chair. After a while he will sit back.

Also he will become a sphinx, as other vice-presidents have become. That is all he can do. He has availed himself of his one opportunity to speak. He is in for four years now and the rules say he can only interpret them and vote in the event of a tie. He cannot rise like senators to a point of personal privilege. He is not supposed to have any privileges, personal or otherwise. A vice-president is supposed like Uncle Remus, just to "louge around and suffer."

General Dawes' famous "Hell and Maria" soon will give way to a sigh and perhaps an "Oh gosh, Oh golly, Oh gee."

Quieted Down
When he heard he was nominated at Cleveland, General Dawes is said to have exclaimed: "Well, I declare."

That is likely to be his demeanor in the long run as he presides over the deliberative Senate.

The vice-president's voice, so raucous and scolding when he was inaugurated, has subsided to a murmur. This is not because the vice-president has given up hope. But just the same some of the older Republican heads in the senate have been talking to the vice-president and explaining that while the country may not think anything of the senate, the Senate thinks a whole lot of itself. So no matter if he doesn't like red tape, and heaven knows there is plenty of it at the capitol, General Dawes is likely to subsidize for the remainder of the session.

Closes Today

Scene from 'CHEAP KISSES', showing today for last time at the Glendale theatre.

Dazzling gowns are worn by Lillian Rich in "Cheap Kisses," which shows today for the last time at the Glendale theatre. The story centers around an elderly man who has imbibed the spirit of the jazz age and for whom saxophones, the tinkle of ice in tall glasses and "Cheap Kisses" hold great appeal.

Kitty, his daughter, is a chip off the old block but Donald, his son, played by Cullen Landis, has a more serious outlook on life. He neverless marries a chorus girl—and this starts a riot in family circles. Then there is a vamp, and for a time the marital affairs of the young couple look gloomy indeed.

In the end, however, the stern parent comes to realize that he it is who is in the wrong, and he checks his wild career and forgives his son. This is all finely directed by John Ince, in a series of vivid, never-to-be-forgotten scenes showing how life is lived in this fast set whose idol is jazz.

LOS ANGELES, March 10.—Carl Byoir, patent medicine advertiser and professional emancipator of suppressed people, received a royal, if somewhat deferred welcome to Los Angeles, when he alighted from a Southern Pacific train. Mayor Cryer was there with many of the most distinguished members of Los Angeles foreign consul, including the Italian consul, the Czech representative and the commissioner of Poland. # BLACK GOLD FLOW CHANGES POLITICS

Big Struggle For Oil Wells Over Earth Changes Nation's Views

By J. C. ROYLE
Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1925.
NEW YORK, March 10.—The increased flow of "black gold" through the channels of world commerce trade and industry may change the course of world politics. The struggle for control of petroleum deposits in a dozen different parts of the world seems destined to lead to international representations, appeals to the league of nations, and perhaps to changes in administration in some of the less stable governments.

Oil men are not waiting for depletion of the present petroleum supplies nor are they depending on the slow moving conservation measures to take care of the future. Interests of a dozen different countries are fighting tooth and nail for concessions to develop new supplies or to control those already developed. And some of them it is charged, are using whatever weapon comes to hand, political pressure included.

Move Watched
The United States through its business interests is vitally interested in many of these struggles for control and developments are being closely watched from Washington. Albania is the center of one of the latest battles for control of the Anglo-Persian Oil Co. of Great Britain and the Standard Oil and Sinclair interests all are fighting for the Albanian oil concession. A cable from London announced that the Albanian parliament had ratified a sixty-year concession to four Albanian oil fields to the Anglo-Persian Co. The agreement, it was stated, provided that Italy should have some participation in the exploitation of the fields.

It is claimed in some quarters that the revolution that ousted Premier Fan Noli of Albania and established Ahmed Bey Zogu in power and led up to the signing of the concession was given support by Jugo Slavia under pressure from England and Italy through Serbia. On the other hand many students of world affairs contend the Jugo Slavs were anxious to see American interests receive the concession and were not anxious to see it go to the Anglo-Persian company although it was supposed to be supporting Ahmed Zogu's revolution.

WEATHER MAN HAS IMPROVED METHOD

Variations In Sun's Heat Tells Condition For Months In Advance

By FRED J. WALKER
For International News Service.
WASHINGTON, March 10.—The problem of accurate weather forecasting months or even longer in advance, one of the great mysteries of the age, may soon be solved. It was revealed today by Dr. Charles G. Abbott, head of the Smithsonian observatory of the Smithsonian Institution, that he said variations in the sun's heat caused by sunspots are now believed to be the key to successful weather forecasting.

A wide variety of data gathered over more than twenty years of study by Smithsonian scientists, have revealed facts which indicate that man for the first time in history may soon be able to anticipate the vagaries of nature.

Since December, of 1923, H. H. Clayton, connected with the Institution, has, with a small office in Canton, Mass., been making uniformly accurate forecasts of New York City temperatures, three, four and five days in advance. The methods are based on solar observations rather than the familiar barometric pressure of present day forecasting.

27 Days Advance
Clayton's forecasts twenty-seven days in advance have not been successful so far, but this is due to "the great odds with which he has to contend," said Dr. Abbott.

"Improvement of mathematical methods of determining the sun's temperature, now being made, shows results in increasing accuracy," John A. Roebling of Berkeley, N. J., has been the financial backer of the work. Figures are available for its continuation until June 30, 1925.

Clayton's forecasts are based on delicate mathematical observations at Mount Harqua Hala, Ariz., and at Montezuma, Chile. Solar measurements are carried daily from Chile and Arizona to Clayton who then compares them, makes the necessary calculations and then sends his forecasts to the Institution.

WATER PROJECT DEDICATED
SAN BERNARDINO, March 10.—San Bernardino's new $275,000 Devil canyon water project has been formally dedicated, with scores of citizens and city officials taking part in the ceremonies in the canyon north of the city. Mayor Grant Holcomb raised the gates of the intake through which 1,615,792 gallons of mountain water will flow every twenty-four hours into the city's distributing system. The Devil canyon project included the erecting of dams across the stream in the canyon, the drilling of three wells and the laying of miles of water mains connecting with the old system. The source is more than doubled by the development of water in the canyon. Only one of the three wells has been completed.

CUTS MILITARY TRAINING

PASADENA, March 10.—With the announcement that the Pasadena Military academy, which has occupied its present site for twelve years will be moved to Covina comes an even more astounding announcement that military training will be entirely eliminated from the school in the future. A new 100-acre tract has been secured near Covina where the school will reopen under the name of California Preparatory school for boys, non-military. Instead of training the boys for war the school will teach farming and a strictly academic course. The personnel of the faculty will not be changed.

EXCLUDE PRIVATE LANDS

SAN BERNARDINO, March 10.—Exclusion of privately owned lands from the United States national forest boundaries is proposed in a survey begun by engineers of the forest service. This is the first step in a movement long under consideration by the forest service. The service is maintaining a patrol of large areas of mountain and timbered land privately owned. In recent years thousands of acres have been purchased by speculators and subdivided. The annual maintenance and patrol of these districts is costing the forest service an immense amount of money and hampering the more efficient patrolling of the government-owned areas. It is asserted. The new survey will be made in an attempt to exclude privately owned lands as far as possible, and resulting in the program that property owners in the excluded districts must provide for patrolling of their lands.

COLLEGE BRINGS SUIT

LA CRESCENTA
LA CRESCENTA, March 10.—St. Luke's of the Mountains celebrated its first baptismal and confirmation services last Sunday when Bishop H. Johnson of the Diocese of Los Angeles officiated at the morning service, assisted by Canon Renison of Eagle Rock. The altar decorated in white and purple iris formed a fitting background for the confirmation service, the little girls being in white with tulle veils. The baptismal font was covered with flowers.

Emmett Le Roy Wemple, son of Major and Mrs. E. L. Wemple, had the honor of being the first child baptized in the new church. Others were: Carl Frederick and Virginia Emily, children of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Brambach; Mary Ellen Allen, Glenn Bruce Roberts, Marjorie Vera Potts, Frank Vimmie Loveday and Gertrude Doris Loveday.

LEAD BATTLE OF TRIAL

Yale Professor Takes Stand On Second Day of Tea Pot Dome Hearing

CHEYENNE, Wyo., March 10.—K. C. Heald, geological professor of Yale university, was recalled to the witness stand at the opening of the second day's hearing of the equity suit in which the United States government seeks to annul leases to the famous Teapot Dome naval oil lands, which the government charges were secured from former Secretary A. B. Fall of the interior department by Harry F. Sinclair for the latter's Mammoth Oil Co.

A lively tilt between Judge John W. Lacey of Sinclair counsel, and Owen J. Roberts, special oil attorney, followed, and the presiding judge, Kennedy, sustained objections for the defense. The witness was excused. Heald made a report of drainage conditions on the Teapot reserve for Secretary Fall.

Sinclair in Court
 Harry F. Sinclair continued an interested spectator at the hearings, occupying a seat close to his counsel's table.
 The deposition of Colonel J. W. Zevley, personal counsel for Harry F. Sinclair, was then called for by the government, after explaining the deposition was the same as Zevley's testimony before the Senate oil investigation.

Completion of the deposition was deferred until later before the court. However, the $25,000 Liberty bond loan made by Sinclair to Fall for the latter's Russian trip.

NEW YORK CLOSING

By W. S. COUSINS
 For International News Service

NEW YORK, March 10.—Bearish traders followed up their recent assault by a severe drive against the stock market today and bringing about a general unsettlement of prices. The attack halted momentarily around noon, when favorable reports of foreign tonnage to the United States Steel Corp. was issued and there was a tendency to rally in many of the market leaders. But selling was renewed and values crumbled from one to five points in the high-priced stocks and proportionately less in the low-priced issues. Heavy selling of the oil and rail stocks was a feature of this movement, and prominent stocks in both groups showed declines of five to ten points from the high levels of the last price rally. Since few of the oils have advanced in the last few weeks, the selling in this list was the evident result of bearish reaction rather than profit taking. The same is true of railroad stocks, which, with the exception of Rock Island, Frisco, Atchafalpa, New Haven common, and a few others, have been practically stationary since the middle of July.

The grain and foreign exchange markets were able to recover from the low level of the first hour. However, call money rates and weakened margin accounts helped the bears in their campaign against prices today. Weakness in the Wilson & Co. stock, which lost most of last week's gains, was due to reports that in the reorganization of the company both classes of the preferred $15 and the common $5 a share.

Sales today, 1,557,000 shares; bonds, $14,374,000.

Blizzard Traveling

Winnipeg and the surrounding territory today was fighting its way through the heaviest fall of snow in recent years. Drifts six and eight feet deep, whipped up by the biting wind, snapped across the prairie, paralyzing traffic on the highways and made steam and electric transportation difficult.

RUM RUNNER ACTS GOOD SAMARITAN

Liquor Cargo Ship Saves
Lives of Nine Sailors
Afloat On Sea

By SARAH MARKHAM
Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1925
PORTLAND, Ore., March 10.—When is a rum runner not a rum runner?

This is a question over which authorities at Washington are now puzzling. But the answer comes ringing clear and strong from the sun-kissed slopes of the Pacific:

"When he's a hero, by gum."

Neither do they stop with words. They hang a beautiful watch, inscribed with the words "True sailor" round the neck of the runner in question.

For, take it from the nine shipwrecked sailors of the ill-fated lumber boat Coaba, Captain Robert Pamphlet, accused of being inside the United States boundaries with his cargo of rum, looked not only a hero to them, he looked a regular angel when he hauled them up out of the icy waters of the Pacific after they had tossed around for 48 hours in an open boat.

Bedraggled, more dead than alive, the nine were greeted with a cheery smile and a steaming hot glass of grog taken from Captain Pamphlet's own cargo, with which he says he was on his way to Mexico when he sighted the shipwrecked men. But playing good samaritan cost Captain Pamphlet dear.

"Villain" Enters
Just as the shipwrecked nine had exhaled nine satisfied "ah's," there was a swish and a smack and a United States coast guard cutter dashed alongside. Rum, crew, shipwrecked men and all were brought triumphantly to Portland where they were accused of having violated the twelve-mile limit law.

The rescued crew of the Coaba pleaded and all but wept. The rum runner crew was lodged in jail. They are now out on bond, pending decision from Washington.

Sudden and Christenson of San Francisco, owners of the wrecked Coaba, today presented Captain Pamphlet with a gold watch. Sentiment of most seafaring men is with him because he upheld the best traditions of the sea.

DRY AGENTS HAND IN RESIGNATIONS

Hall of Napa, and Chris Muir of Vallejo, federal prohibition agents operating out of the Sacramento office, announced today that they had submitted their resignations to Charles Goff, chief federal prohibition agent for Northern California and Nevada. ## BEET SUGAR FACTORY

DENVER, March 10.—Reports from Sedgewick county, in north-eastern Colorado, say the Great Western Sugar Co. is planning a beet sugar factory there, to cost $1,500,000. It will be running in time for the 1925-26 season.

Pat Bode, a Canadian war veteran, in one of his leisure hours wrote the following poem for the Sunshine Market, corner of West Wilson avenue and Orange street, Glendale:

In the little town of Glendale,
Upon busy Wilson street,
Stands the busy Sunshine Market,
Where we get good things to eat.

There we get our corn and oysters,
Bread and tea and coffee, too;
Milk and pears and grapes and
beefsteaks;
All things good and fit to chew.

'Ray for Cummings, he's the grocer;
He sells jams and rice and cheese,
With his little wife to help him,
They are as busy as the bees.

He's a big man, is this Cummings,
Hard of fist and stern of eye,
He will keep St. Peter's grocery
In the golden bye and bye.

'Ray for Burgie, the keen grocer,
He's the master of the greens,
He sells the peppers, beets and onions,
Carrots, turnips and string-beans.

He's a scrapper, is this Burgie,
He's the boss of Wilson street;
If you try to steal his onions,
He will soak you with a beet.

'Ray for Melhuish, the butcher,
He's the king of sirloin, fine,
Wienerwurst and home-made sausage,
Steaks and chops and roasts divine.

Though a butcher, he's a white man,
For he gives us honest weight,
What his profits are I don't know,
They're enough, at any rate.

Cummings, Burgie and Melhuish,
All are honest men and true,
For they work to feed the public,
Jake and Bill and me and you.

GREAT LAKES WIN BIG CONCESSIONS

Chicago Sewage Problem Is Settled In Limiting Drainage Supply

By J. C. ROYLE
Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1925.

NEW YORK, March 10.—Great Lakes commerce will profit $65,000,000 a year eventually by the decision rendered by Secretary of War Weeks, settling the long controversy between the city of Chicago on one side and the Lake states and Canada on the other, over Chicago's diversion of water from Lake Michigan for the disposal of her sewage. The decision is hailed by Lake shipping interests as a great victory, although its fruits will not fully ripen for five years.

The secretary's decision reached after the case had floundered through the courts, permits Chicago to continue turning into her drainage canal for the next five years, 8500 cubic feet of water per second, as against the 10,000 feet the city has been consuming in the past, with the resultant lowering of the lake's level by six inches.

Sewerage Plans
During the five years, however, Chicago must modernize its sewage disposal system in such a manner that the water diversion from 1929 to 1935 will be only 7500 cubic feet per second. By 1935 the city must be prepared to reduce the diversion to only 4167 cubic feet per second. The sewage treatment place which the city must construct to take care of this program, it is estimated will cost $54,000,000, less by $11,000,000 than shippers claim to have lost through the city's heedless use of lake water.

Meanwhile, the Great Lakes will be slowly creeping up again to their old levels, facilitating the handling of water-borne commerce, which averages annually a tonnage equal to one-fourth that transported by all the railroads of the country.

THREE KILLED IN WEEK-END TRAFFIC

San Benito County Has One
Of Most Disastrous
Holiday Periods

HOLLISTER, Cal., March 10.—One man is known to be dead, two others are reported to have been killed and a number of motorists were injured in one of the most disastrous automobile and motorcycle accident week-ends in the history of San Benito county. William Leonard of San Francisco died of injuries when his car was said to have been forced off the highway in Chittenden pass, while an unverified report has it that two more were killed on the Los Banos side of Pacific pass when their car skidded off an embankment.

What My Neighbor Says

Is of Interest to Glendale Folks.

When one has had the misfortune to suffer from backache, headaches, dizziness, urinary disorders and other kidney ills—and has found relief from all this sickness and suffering that person's advice is of untold value to friends and neighbors. The following case is only one of many thousands, but it is that of a Glendale resident. Who could ask for a better example?

Harry Woods, prop. shoe repair shop, 214 W. Stocker St., says: "I had backache and pains through the small of it, which were caused from working at my bench. A few Doan's Pills relieved me and I am glad to recommend them."

The above statement was given February 7, 1920, and on May 10, 1924, Mr. Woods said: "I always keep Doan's Pills on hand, and they never fail to relieve me of the slightest attack of backache and kidney trouble."

Price 50c at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Pills—the same that Mr. Woods had. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfrs., Buffalo, N. Y.—Advertisement.

COPPER INTEREST IN INCOME TANGLE

Companies Owe Millions In Tax Money According To Testimony

WASHINGTON, March 10.—Testimony that the government has lost more than $50,000,000 in erroneous tax deductions to big copper interests has been presented by treasury experts before the Senate committee investigating the bureau of internal revenue, it was declared today.

Heaviest losses to the government were from the Anaconda Copper Co., and the Inspiration Copper Co., L. C. Manson, special committee prosecutor, testified. This resulted from the treasury accepting the copper company's valuation claims.

In its tax returns for 1917 and 1918, the Anaconda company claimed a valuation of $184,152,965, although John A. Grimes, chief of the Metals Valuation section of the internal revenue bureau, said the amount should have been only $54,865,822. The company received a big saving in taxes when the treasury permitted a valuation of $138,173,192.

MAROONED PARTY IS LANDED SAFELY

Fishermen Taken From Ship
Tossed About By High
Seas For Two Days

LOS ANGELES, March 10.—After the ship on which they had gone for a fishing party had been tossed about by high waves from Saturday noon to late yesterday afternoon, the 100 passengers marooned two miles off Redondo Beach, were safely brought to land without accident.

The ship rode at anchor throughout the storm, and aside from severe seasickness which occurred when the heavy swells struck the vessel, the fishermen were unhurt. Lack of sleeping quarters aboard the ship made the suffering more intense.

When the high seas abated yesterday afternoon, small fishing boats put out from Santa Monica, Ocean Park and Redondo Beach and the passengers were taken ashore.
